Governor Fulber
Vilara, maid

23/6/2017

Governor Fulber said: "Londer! I'll be going for a couple of hours! Tell the people in waiting about it."

—Yes, Sir. Have a good trip.—

—Yeah.— Governor Fulber said, coughing. His attitude was always the same: at 15 hours he went away from office until the next day, but pretending he was only away for a couple of hour.

He drives home, finding only the maid.

—Where's my wife, Vilara?

—She went shopping, Mr. Fulber.— The maid said, staring blankly at him. He always find disturbing her stare - never knowing what she was thinking behind that blank face.

—Well, that's common in these days. Tell the cook I want to eat."

—A full lunch, Sir?

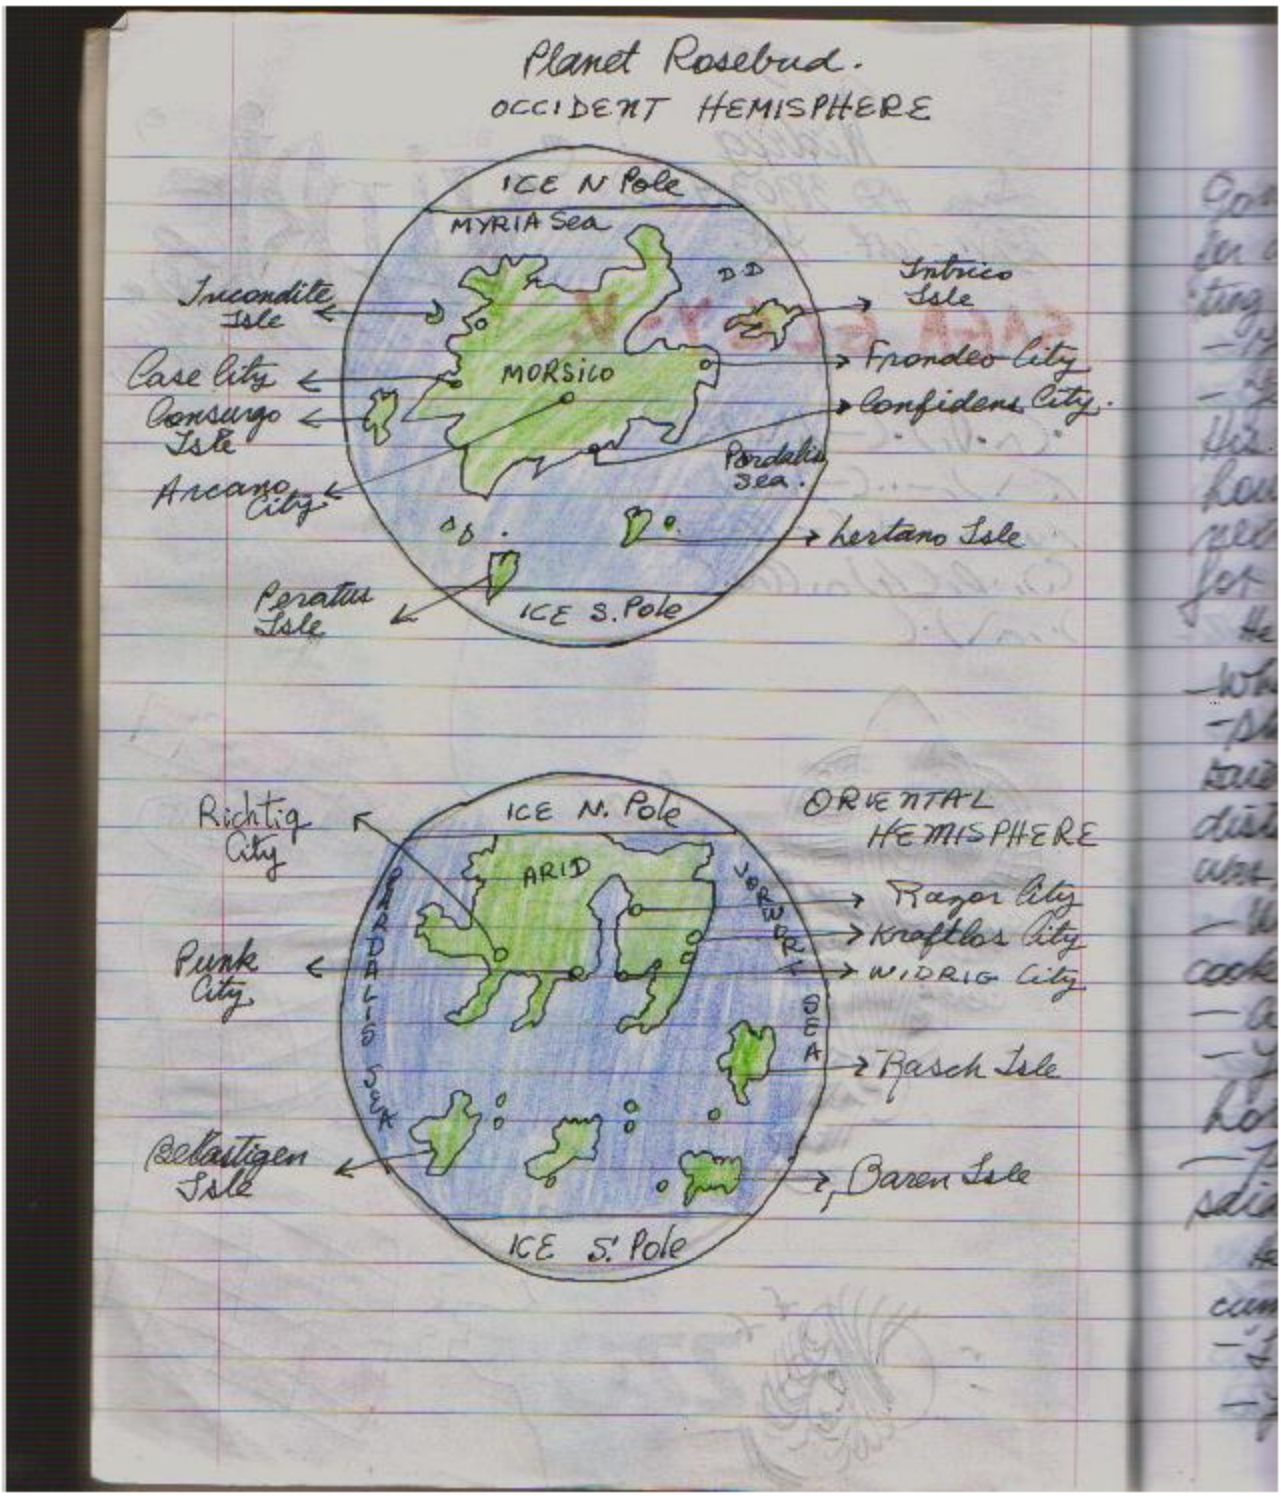

—Yes. A big fat steak steack and eggs. Lots of eggs."— Fulber said.

—Yes, Sir. I'll call you when ready."— Vilara said, and left towards the kitchen.

He went to his office and revised some documents — then he lunched and said to Vilara:

—"I'll be at the job. Tell that to my wife."

—Yes, Sir."— Vilara said, happily - she knew that now she'll be um unmolested by the rest of the afternoon.

Fulber ordered his driver to direct the vehicle towards the sea; he have bought a nice cottage facing the gulf and when arriving, he seats at the terrace, looking at the blue sky and the majestic sea. A maid come, asking: "Do you like some lemonade, sir?"

– Yes, Bumeld and bring another glass for you." – So, he talk with that nice woman, admiring her beautiful face.

– You see, I have this place and nobody come to see me here. And do you know why?" He asked.

– Yes. Nobody knows you own this place." – She said sipping at the lemonade.

– Right! Do you know if your uncle will come today?"

– No, as he is busy fishing." – Bumeld replied.

– It's rather dangerous in these waters! Many monsters lurking around." – Fulber said, admiring her white legs.

– He's certain that at some hours of the day, big fishes are dormant." Bumeld said.

– Really? I was ignorant of that fact." – Fulber said, staring at her.

– It's common saying among sailors." – Bumeld assured him.

—Well... good luck on your uncle then. See that big bird coming from the sea? They said he could fly over the whole gulf without resting.— Fulber said. She nodded, while the wind moves gently her hair.
—Well, enough of fresh air! Let's walk inside, Bumeld! Time to work.— He ordered.
Inside a wide room, they seat at a large table and begin painting and drawing - he draw a theme, and she colored it, and viceversa. When the light of day diminished, she said: "Time for you to go."
—Oh? Well, yes.— Fulber said, and kissed her repeatedly. Then, she said: "Hope you could stay."
—Impossible for now! As long as I'm the Governor, I cannot take the divorce."— Fulber replied-—Renounce, then! So we could draw [illegible] through the night!"— she happily said.
At his return home, Vilara said: "Your wife call, saying she'll stay with her mother for the night."
—What a pity! Guess we'll slept together?— Fulber asked. Vilara laughed and said: "I love to sleep at the large bed! It's so cozy!"
Fulber went to his private office and read documents until around 22 hours; then he went to bed. There, Vilara was already asleep. He bedded next to her, grateful of the warmth her body was giving to the sheets.

In the morning, Vilara presents him a nice breakfast, saying: "Eat! It's a new day of hard b labour!"

– Oh, yes indeed!" – Fulber said, taking the tray – smashed fried eggs, bread, and coffee with milk, all hot and delicious to the last.

– some people believe we, Governors, live to work and get worried by problems. But I know it could be not so." – Fulber said.

– You are clever." – Vilara reminded him.

– Who knows? Women and good hours of rest could dulcify life quite a bit." – Fulber said.

Ronalda, his wife, appears when he was already leaving home.

– So early to work, Fulber? I need to tell you about some things." – she commenced.

– I hear."

– I need money to pay my dentist. Also, there's a social event at 16. hours. I must attend but impossible with my old shoes. I need money." – She mentioned.

– How much?" – He asked mildly.

– 150.000 Sopes." – She said

– No? Do you want me to use 600 sopes' worth of shoes? all right, I will not attend! Furthermore, the dentist's debt it's 2.900 sopes... guess you can give me that? Plus some money for locomotion." – She said, with an angry face.
Fulber gives her 30.000 sopes, saying "See that you get the more of it. I'm not a millionaire."
– I know you can't." – She said, ravishingly, and takes the bank bills with avid hands...
Fulber went to work; at his desk he saw the Agenda for the day. He calculate 6 hours in all, so he cut ends immediately, closing appointment hours and telling his Secretary about it.
– Call them earlier! Here's the new schedule." – He said. The tall, thin and wooden Miss Shubak gives him a short stern look and taking the piece of paper, she walks out of the room. A quarter of an hour later, the first groups (5 men) enters the room, followed by Bruk and Shubak: Bruk has his bodyguard (sometimes his visitors didn't like his decisions); the team were from the Street cars - heavy armored vehicles puffing along streets, carrying passengers from one side of the city to the other.

- We demand a raise in salaries! Most of our comrades lives in the line of poverty!" - Julok, the voice-speaker, said. He was fat, greasy and perspire continuously.
Miss Shubak produces a diagram, where several lines indicates the last five raises obtained by those workers, and the comparison with salaries on other similar trades; also, a round (or circle) diagram showing the cost of living for a family of 4 persons in the city, and how the present salaries could reach on that.

- You are way above common salaries that our government actually is disclosing. For a four member's family, the salary is enough to sustain them and more so: a quarter is free to be used in another item a Worker needs to obtain." - Fulber said.

Poribendo, another Worker, said: "But you must understand that our companions needs more than a life where only meals and ocassionally a new garment and during the half hour he revised diagrams of the aerial vehicle, while the Doctor explain every detail of it. Then, he said:

– I'll ask some more money for this new invention. Have you any idea of the cost?"
– 1 million sopes for a small vehicle. 15 millions for a full size model." – Dr. Tremalnak said, staring at the Governor.
– Well, this vehicle of yours could open aerial ways for our government! I'll present it to the Minister of Transport! But I tell you right away: the interest of the government lies on railroads by now. Aerial vehicles are not priority." – Fulber remarked.
– I'll leave you the diagrams to show the minister! I'm sure you have the skills to open the most locked doors!" – Dr. Tremalnak said, and that ends that meeting.

Secretary Miss Dubak takes the documents while Fulber was saying: "A pity we couldn't solve doctor Tremalnak projects! Our society have a lot to learn from it."
– Sure. Do you want to present this ideas to the air Ministery?" – She asked.
– Yes. And cancel other appointments! I'll work from my house." – Fulber said, with

FRIDAY

An Aerial Ship appears a sigh.

Half an hour later, he was being driven to his cottage by the sea, seated at his cartwheel with the driver in front. It was 13.45 hours - early in the afternoon... he was mildly preoccupied for the ones waiting to be attended by him at the Governor's House, but he feels not so much obliged to his work as to take the full burden of his post...

He was dozing well when the vehicle come to a stop. He looked by the window, not seeing the sea.

—What happens, Bruk?" He asked the driver.

—You better come out of the vehicle, Sir." — Bruk's voice was heard.

He went out and saw Bruk on the seat staring upwards; Shubak was standing near the beasts, trying to calm them down.

In the air was traveling a star, not distant or shinning as they usually does, but near, very near to the ground.

– A star! – Fulber exclaimed.
– seems a star, sir! But I bet it's a vehicle! look at the seams and bolts!" – Shubak said.

And yes, he realize it was like a ballon. "The Doctor Eremalnak's invention makes alive." – He thought.

The object landed 200 meters away and very near to the road. One horses become unmanegeable, and turning around, takes the Wheelcart (and Bruk) with them; the hollering died in the distance.

From the object a pair of men went out by a door that opened suddenly – instead of to walk, they slide over the ground and approached them in seconds. Shubak moves to a side, ready to run away. One of the men said: "Don't you fear any harm from us! We are your friends!"

– Who are you? From where you come?" – Fulber asked, mildly shocked.

Durakle Forlorn and a distant war.

-I'm Durakle Forlorn. We came from Nemars. We need help."
-With that kind of craft? I doubt it!"
-Don't doubt it! Our crew was decimated. Machines don't think."
-We aren't qualified."
-You'll be. A big nice reward will come your way, if you help us for awhile." Durakle offered.

Fulber was certain that his life was already planned by him; any deviation will provoke chaos. So, his answer was no. Durakle said: "Sorry to ask! But we cannot accept a negative." - And he sprayed them with a powerful yellow gas - the bodies of Fulber and Druk falls to the ground.

Durakle takes them (in turn) and climb the vehicle.

-More meat?" - Sir Duger asked, looking at the humans. He was a member of the Felis humanoid.

-Workers.

-Well. If they get sick or injured...." Sir Duger said, extracting his claws.... Durakle trembled (as he was only human.)

Nemars (STAR) ○○○○○○○
↓ Nemars 3

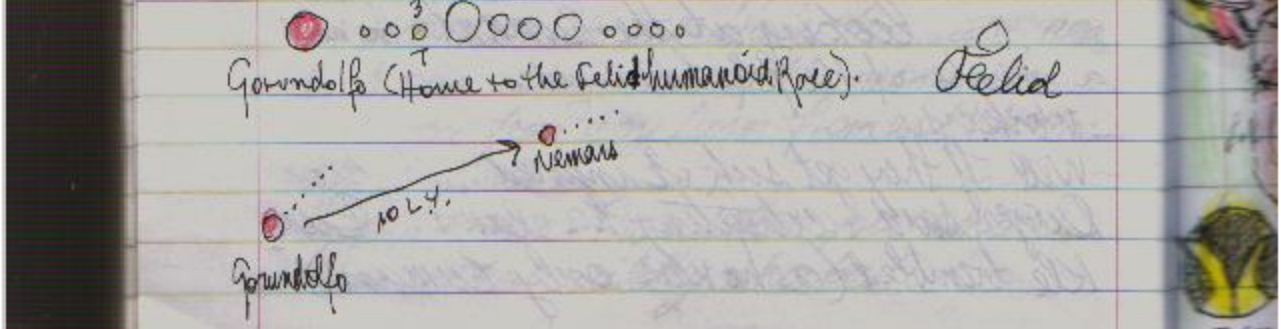

The humans were implanted and desinfected. Soon they were indoctrinated by the Main Computer, and sent to workestations. They now were able to work almost in any post, if required.

The spaceship went up to the orbit, after replenishing air and water tanks.

-With these 2 last volunteers we're ready to went back to Nemars." - Sir Duger said. Durakle knew that the Commander needs needs to return by order of his civilization. Nemars, a planet full of humanoids, enslaved by Felis, now was winning the war, making the felis humans to retreat.

The spaceship gets into the nearest wormhole and after some minutes, gets out of it thanks to the driver splitter mechanism.

-Gorundolfo! a bright star indeed!? Growled Sir Duger, clenching his pointed teeth together. His green eyes sparkled with fury.

Sir Duger.
Durable Forlon.

Colonel Fisso
Prince Rusho
Commander Soir

A fleet welcomes the return of the spaceship, and through holographies they communicate.
-Welcome, Sir Duger. Any news from Nemans?"- A highly decorated felis human asked.
-Few news and all of them bad! Humans regains control over Nemans 3! Our fleet was decimated."- Sir Duger said. Colonel Fisso hissed and said: "A pity to hear that! At least you come back unabashed."
-Yes, and decimated. My valuable crew is gone. Now I have slaves at the controls."- Sir Duger reply.
-A pity. Where are you leading?"
-Home. I'll ask Prince Rusho for more spaceships. I wonder if he will accede."
-He will. You are valerous and a proud for our spacefleet."- Colonel Fisso commented.

The rest of the voyage to planet 3 was a dull one, and after a few orbits around that planet, the spaceship was allowed to land at the Royal Spaceport 3.

Sir Duger was called by Commander Soir, at the Ministry of war.

At a wide office, the Commander asked: "And where is the rest of our fleet?"

La filosofía es abstracción

The Felines are defeated at Nemars – Defeated but never surrender. Big fights against new spaceship models. I lost almost every crew member and I come out on one engine." – Sir Duger said.

– Defeat. I hate that concept! Those flimsy humanoids must be celebrating with their fluffy females at this hour and time! We'll change laughter into cries of horror!" Commander Soir said.

After some more remarks, Soir said: "We'll repair your ship; go and attend reunions with our high command." – and the reunion was over.

The newly recruited members weren't allowed to roam the city. Fulber and Druke weren't the only "volunteers"; they find out when reaching a fenced farm, with a big castle near a river. Felis humanoids, armed with strange rifles were there to prevent any escape. Fulber guess he was one of about five hundred other E-kind humanoids, male and females, everyone using the same clothes from the time they were captured.

A man climbs a rock; he was Mr. Durake, who said in a big voice:

Felis humanoid's City - Ruvron.

"Men and women, hear this! His Majesty King Ruarko 23th has declared you free citizens of Ruvron! From now on you will be free to visit the city in the light time! But on dusk, you must return here or wherever you feel confidence and security! As you should know by now, Felis humanoids eats only meat! Unfortunately, money is not yet available for you, so buying is not possible. You'll be hosted in the old buildings some of you already know. For the newcomers, feel free to use dormitories as you need. Clothes aren't available."

N. 1844 -

A rumor of angry voices follows this not happy speech.

Later, a group visits the city and they notice that the Felis humanoids looks on them with despise. From the news everyone knows of the defeat suffered at Nemars.

The group ends up in a deserted lot, with corners full of garbage. A man lit a cigar, saying: "Pity this is not tobacco." And certainly the smell differs by the four sides of it.

But the best was the dancing places - several of them weren't much used by the feline race, so humans could be in the majority; romance abounds and this was because of the sense of impending doom was pushing everyone to forget much of etiquette and restraint.

- life on board of a battle ship is short; more so if we humans are on board. Felines usually escape in life saving pods, leaving us inside metal tombs to pay the price." - an old crew mate said, next to Fulber. He was forever remembering his former job, and very repented to have stopped when seeing that aerial craft on the field.

He met Laure, a handsome blonde woman, and soon they were lovers.

- soon our adventure will end and fighting will be upon us. What is your vessel?" - Laure asked

- The "SD-730"; hope it will stand a fight."

- It all depends! Sometime the Felines send the worst first, kind of a - junk metallic wall, preserving the best for the rest of the fight" - Lenox said

-Grim future.- Fulber said, kissing her white cheek.
-I'll ask you to help me at the Laser section! Perhaps they'll accept.- Laure said.
-We two-in a battleship! A romantic dream.- He murmured, knowing now that humans were disposable in the Society of the Feline kingdom.

Days later, 34 spaceships departed from Gorundolfo towards Nemaus, with the hope to recover that planetary System for the kingdom of the Lion. And no, Fulber wasn't transferred to the "Rullon" Battleship, as Laure wished to be.

While in Voyage, they found several small spaceships from the enemy lurking at great distances. Lord Godt said:
-They spot us already! No way this expedition will pass unnoticed!"
-Don't you think of it! We'll give them such a blow that they will be repented to have been threatening us!"- Sir Ruger said.

When nearing the Nemaus planetary system, a sparkling line of warships were waiting for them-and ready for battle.

Fiery "C-Rays" crisscrossed the void; some missiles fly against the spacecrafts, exploding against reed fury color Force Fields. Inside the "SD730" Fulber was now helping in the variables at the Engine room, looking how the dynamo sparkled at full speed, while Ronroneko the Feline administrator growled orders, expecting everyone to obey promptly as a flash in the dark sky.

A rumor arrives: "We hit a cruiser!" - And everyone was supposed to yell in triumph; for Fulber this was a foreign battle among alien races, but the matter of it was that he was now inserted in a spaceship able to explode if hit badly - that assumption makes him to grab a side in this War: his survival requires it!

A side of the engine room turns violently red and sparks of molten metal drips in rivulets to the floor. Somebody said: "It's a laser ray! Soon the whole wall will disappear!" - And run away by a passageway... Ronroneko said: "Don't move from your posts or I'll shoot you!" - And he was now handling a MASER gun in his left paw...

2/VIII

Fulber dijo: "Pierde cuidado; ninguno de nosotros sabe caminar por el espacio vacío." Ronroneko le miró por unos instantes y luego dió diversas órdenes, en medio de violentos tirones de la nave, que trataba de esquivar los rayos, lográndolo al fin. Se sintió llegar una orden desde el puente:

Fulber said: "Don't you worry! Not one of us knows how to walk by the void!" Ronroneko stared at him and then he barked several orders, among some jerking movements from the pilot's efforts to avoid LASER beams, until it gets calm. An order come from Deck One: "Stop all engines!"

—What's happening? — Fulber asked.

— Who knows? — Buk said, shrugging his wide shoulders. Soon they realize what have happened: Soldiers using enemy uniforms storms the place, carrying everyone out to Hold #2; locking doors, five soldiers remains with weapons ready to shoot.

— They take the spaceship. Strange situation. — Ronroneko said, flexing his legs: he seems ready to jump on any enemy guard...

Prisoners of War.

2 days later, and without any food, everyone was lying on the floor; the worst looking ones were the Felis humanoids. The General rumor was that the Chiefs escape before the enemy takes control of the spaceship.

– Where are the Lords and Commanders? Old Tonkon Rorroneko and Sothers are here with us." A crewmate said, next to Falber.

– We were cannon meat, but those Felis were not supposed to be so." – Bruk said, spitting.

Hours later an officer appeared, saying:

– "Are you from the Nemans 3 planet? Raise your hand if you are; the rest wait."

A couple of them did raise their hands.

– Two out of a crowd? Very well. Follow me." – that man said, and both crewmates walked after him; 2 guards were in the rear.

– And what about us?" – somebody asked, and one of the guards said: "You just wait."

Half an hour later, another officer come and said: "You are prisoners of war, no matter if you worked willingly or not for the Felines. We'll feed you until disembark."

And the guards gives them sandwiches: one for each prisoner.

– At least we'll be eating something." – Bruk said, munching that bread and cheese.

2 days later, they were in a freighter; the travel takes 4 1/2 days and after landing, they walked down the ramp. An officer ordered them to climb to a couple of land trucks.

—Where are we going?— Bruk asked, but nobody knew the answer, until, hours later, they arrive to a mine. A Guard said: "Welcome to Mine # 9. Here you'll work from now on."

Fulber finds Laure among the prisoners.

—"Oh, you here! I miss you."— he said.

—A sad destiny awaits us!"— She said, squeezing his hand.

—Hope you'll get a lighter job! The work in a mine is nothing but comfortable.— Fulber murmured.

—Guess not. But I'm prepared for the worst.— She said, firmly.

—Now we are close together, I hope our destiny could allow us to keep in touch, because you are very important for me."—

Fulber at the Mine

Fulber said
She embraces him for all response ---
The work in the mines were very simple:
men to the tunnels and women to the kitchen.
Buck was now working carrying wagons up and down the mine, while Fulber was with the hammer and shovel - so to speak, as machines and artifacts were in use.
- We'll be leaving the mine in a black bag! I have seen many a one to finish their days in this holes." - A bearded man said, one night before after a day's work.
- I hope that Felipe could let us go after a time. Perhaps when sick?" - Fulber said.
- No way!" - The old man said. "Don't suffer! Death its very close for us, Slaves." - Fulber realize, after a couple of months, that life was not worth be living at a place like that, and with his drill machine he forces the way up, amid the surprise of many.
When out of the mine, he kept going by a desert road at full speed - that was not much - but that it was able to leave him at the outskirts of a large city.

Walking, he enters the streets, mingling with felines and the scant humans that worked there.

Seated at the side of a fountain, he observes the daily traffic. People going about their business with suitcases, others with bags, some others selling goods and services. ~~There were some big ones, 2.30 meters high, fully furry... eyes blinking with the light, ferocious teeth protruding carnivores with green, blue and yellow eyes. Difficult not to be afraid of them, as more than a few times stares at the humans with a lion-like expression.~~

A pair of women that were passing by, with some bags, approached him, saying: "What are you doing here?"

-I'm on leave from a spaceship! Why?" Gulber

15/VIII/2017

They walked by a dim lighted corridor and enters a small office. The men stared at him. Fulber saw the 2 ladies and said: "Thanks for your help! Now that darkness arrives, more and more Fetires GUARDS are out in the street! I was never so frightened in my life as minutes ago."

-That is how is to live in this city!" The smaller woman explained.

-The Fetires GUARDS have no remorse at all! Once they made a bad deed, they forget it was unjust."

-The taller woman murmured, remembering so many cases of humans prisonners being maimed or kill by them.

-I'll tell you the truth: I escape from the mines! I have nowhere to go. If not for your presence in this afternoon, now I would be dead meat."-Fulber commented. They seems not to be much surprised and the fellow said: "This town is full of escapades and run-away guys... like you and me. Women are another matter! Sexual assault it's better for them than to kill, so there are more human females than males. Fetire GUARDS vagabonds usually kill to eat! Laws in here are very flexible - humans have prisonners of war no rights, specially now that they lost the war against Nemanians." The man said.

Fulber rubbed his hands, saying: "We should try to contact those Nemanians, to be saved!" The smaller woman laughed and said: "For that, just a miracle could occur."

The man said: "We have a bed for you to pass the night. Follow me." And indeed there was a room for him, dusty and with a bed. The women gives him 2 blankets, saying: - "The night is cold, but better here than at the street." - And leave him alone with a candle burning on the night table...

Fulber soon was full asleep - the man come to see him, and seeing him asleep, he Return to his own bed, chuckeling - the newcomer soon will learn he should be better in the mine.

Early in the morning, Fulber finds the bath room and at last he takes a cold shower, leaving behind the filth of the mine. Unfortunately, he was forced by the circumstances and used the same soiled clothes than the day before.

The women called him to have breakfast, and the man said: "as you don't have a place to stay, and in the street you could be caught, specially using those clothes, I'll propose you a bargain."
—Not that you have much choices.— The smaller woman said, blinking one eye.
—Let us give names here: I'm Gustavson, they are Rualda and Anemone." (Being Anemone the smaller in height.)
—I'm Fulber, kidnapped by the Feline race, forced to work at a spaceship that was captured by your people. As a renegade of sorts, I become here a slave in the mines, together with many other unfortunates. I ran away from the mine, and here I am, hoping for a chance.— Fulber said in a hoarse voice.
—Eat! The bread is warm and the coffee is hot!— Rualda said. While at it, Gustavson said: "A sad story but with a happy ending! I offer you a job. You'll get clothes, shelter, and a small quantity of money... for starts."

-Good. We all work in a mill. I was needing an assistant, so you'll be accepted right away. -Gustavson said, munching on his bread.

One hour later, Gustavson presents the new worker to his Chief, and immediately thereafter they were sent to work. At lunch hour, Fulber and Gustavson meets Rualda and Anemone at a table.

-Nice work." Fulber said, receiving his tray from a worker. "Eat fast! There are some others waiting." -One guy said, pushing his cart full of trays along the rows of tables.

-Don't pay attention to him! It's a sour lemon, a sissy." -Anemone said, laughing.

-He have no problems to learn the job! We'll get along fine." -Gustavson commented to the women.

-Good! But we must lend him some money, as his clothes are dirty." -Rualda said.

-All right. We'll go shopping after hours!" -Anemone said, munching her meal.

And indeed they were - to a low quality goods shop - not only Shoes and clothes to find there, but also meat, cigars, liquor and magazines.

The Girls choose for him - they laughed and made him dress different clothes & shoes until 3 pants, 5 shirts, underwear and 2 pair of shoes were selected and bought.

- How you look human!" - Anemone said, when walking along the street, and her eyes shone.

When paid, Fulber returns them part of that money and invites them to a Restaurant, where they danced and begins a nice romance between Fulber and Anemone, who from then on was his loyal partner.

- You are so special to me that my past is gone at the minute you give your love to me." - Fulber said, trying to erase his old memories. She looked into his eyes and said: "I'll be your loyal woman as long as you are faithful to me. I know men are of short love endurance."

- Not me." - Fulber said,

Months later, Fucalda went away and Gustavson brings a man - Lacher - to live at the building - but the man was a drunkard and beats Gustavson in a weekly basis
- I cannot stand Lucher any more! He brings havoc to my life." Anemone said to both males. Gustavson cried and said: "But I love him! He's so powerful and brings heaven to me!"
- Find a girl." - Fulber recommends.
- Not for me! I tried but women aren't for me. I am attracted only to fiery men." - Gustavson said in a whisper.

They kept money in storage for some more time and then they moved to a new genteel place, leaving Gustavson and his lover alone.
The new home was a small cottage in Four months later, they knew she was pregnant.

—A baby is coming ! aren't you happy ?"— she asked him in a whisper.

—Of course I am, and also amazed. We aren't from the same race or planet, and here we are, totally compatible"— Fulber said but soon he was repented to say that as Anemone become very nervous about what she have in her womb.

—Pity we cannot see the baby before it's born."— Fulber commented.

—But the doctor told me it's nothing bad about him ! the heart beat it's totally normal."— she replied.

As the floors were not in the best of shapes, Fulber bought some wood planks an retired the old floor. In doing so, he finds 3 metal boxes, rusted but locked with old chain mechanism. He worked patiently on them and finally unlocked the 3 of them, not open the lids until the all of them were ready to be seen.

—What do you suspect there's in them?"— Fulber tested her.

—Bones or papers."— she said, smiling gently.

They were very surprised to find the contents. Jewels, gold and silver; gold was in plate but silver was tarnished. Stones shone under the light of the candles.

—Well, guess our luck have changed."— He gasped.

An indeed was so.

trickled down his face.

Months later, Bruk was left in charge of another shop at the nearest town, Guno, with weekly supervision on the sellings by Fulber.

– And how's going here?"

– Very fine, governor. Plenty of sunshine and girls.

– Oh! Are you awakening to love?" – Fulber smiled. The other smiled back, and said: "Why not? I'm not old."

– Of course love is around the corner, but be prepared to suffer. Many women just love to have many lovers." – Fulber said.

– Oh, I don't care about that! I like only one night stance affairs! More than twice opens the gates to be a father of a child." – Bruk said.

– You, a philosopher! I never dreamt of you being a philosopher." – Fulber commented, and then they talk about what to buy (flour) and expenses.

When back at Loris city, he said to Dremone: "Bruk looks fat and happy there."

-Good. But that man has a dangerous staire, once in a while. Wish you could not trust too much in him."

-Of course."- Fulber said, doubting in female hunches. But in sucessive trips to — he puts more attention in numbers and stock than never before.

Winter come and the trips were more and more difficult because of the snow. That morning Anemone begged him not to travel.

-Why are you going? The guy has proved honest. Wait for a better climate."- She said, while he was mounting on the vehicle.

-No, I could not bear to see myself on a mirror just because I don't greet there. Good bye. I'll return in a few days."- He said, and departed swiftly not to repented...

The trip was a difficult one because of visibility next to 30%; the snow flakes fell in clusters. The trip of 3 hours takes him 5 and when reaching the shop, he witnessed a row

Brow at the bakery shop.

Between Bruk and a couple of customers.

-You sent me half baked bread to my ~~xxx~~ Bakery and I have several customers very sick!" One of the men yelled.

-Impossible! Who knows where else are ya buying more bread and you now are blaming on me!" Bruk bellowed, but when seeing who was coming, he said:

"Here is my boss! Tell them, Governor! All our goods are in well shape before being sold to customers!"

-Indeed it's like he said, but have no problems! I'm here to solve your problems! Indeed tell me what it is that you want from us!" Fulber asked.

-A total refund! Also, some money to bestow on sick clients! This it's the humane thing to do! Also, to shut their mouths!" One of the men said, with an angry gesture.

-How much bread these customers bought?" Fulber asked.

-100 kilos... but I tell ya, there was nothing wrong with that bread!" Bruk said, angrily.

-Please, I'm going to make a deal with these customers! Sirs: I'll refund you the 100 kg. of bread. Are you satisfied with that?"- Fulber asked. The men talked among them and one of them said: "All right, a total refund and a thousand sopes for the inconveniences! We must pay something to those that are ill!"
-No problem there. a 100 kg means 300 sopes in all, plus 1000 in int indemnization, am I correct?"- Fulber asked.
-Yes. And if there are some more problems, you'll have to pay for it!"- Another customer said
-Totally in accord, then? Bruk: see that our treasurer delivers that amount to these gentlemen."- Fulber said, mildly. Bruk went out of the shop in search of the treasurer, an old man living at the second floor.
-See? Problems arise, and we solved it as gentlemen that we are."- Fulber said.
-Well, to talk with you its to come to good terms! But fire your employee! He's a rude son of his mother!"- A client said Bruk returns with a check.

—Here! 1300 Lopes.!— Fulber said, handing the paper. The clients went out with a smile.
—Boss! You didn't sign the check! How are they to collect the money?!— Bruk said, in a whisper.
—They will not collect a coin! But I made them feel fine until tomorrow!— Fulber said, as at that precise hour all the Banks in the city were closing their doors until the next morning.
—You, clever you!— Bruk smiled, happy now to know that those crooked clients will not earn undue money...
Fulber revised the books and finding everything in order, he said: "Very well, Bruk! Nice earnings!"
—I do my best, Governor!— He assured him.
—Here! Take this money and buy yourself a vehicle!"— Fulber said, handing him some money.
—Oh! Thanks, Governor! But see what I'll do: a truck or a van will suit me better! To carry bread on my own vehicle! Special delivery for special clients! What do you say about my idea? — Druk asked, taking the money in his hands.

— Good idea! Keep on like that, and perhaps we'll enlarge our present shop! To sell other things on the side." — Fulber commented.

From there, he booked at a nice Hotel, and spend the evening in a Cabaret.

He slept from 03 to 07 hours, and then he not alone! I'll be going with you."

—No problem! Let's go now!

—It's dark outside. If working, must be in daylight."

—No matter that. I know where he lives."— Fulber said.

In a vehicle they traveled from that somber building towards Bruk's abiding place. He was asleep, and awoke when hearing the knockings at his hotel's door.

—What's happening?

—Open the door; I'm Fulber. I am here to offer you a bargain."

—all right, boss."— Bruk replied, opening the door and looking on that stranger next to Fulber.

—Who is this guy?

—A member of some Governmental Office. He is offering us a deal.

—What kind of deal? In the middle of the night? I'm feeling that you are forcing mychief to something he doesn't want!"— Bruk said, and suddenly hitting Mucio, who fall like a dead cow to the floor.

—See? Easy comes, easy goes! And please, boss, take some whisky now! You look rather pale!"— Fulber takes the glass with trembling hands and told Bruk about Lucio and his offerings...

Bruk seats on the verge of his bed and said: "Quite a story! I'm not willing to serve as a guinea pig. What are we going to do with this guy?"

—He'll recover and will send a squad of military men after us."—Fulber said.

—So we kill him and send him down the bridge?"

—Guess it'll be the best. But perhaps there are many others in the know."—Fulber said.

—I like the sound of a broken neck."—Bruk said, twisting Lucio's head until it snaps.

—Dead. Now to the river. Let's see... an old blanket will suffice."—Bruk said, and rolling Lucio's body over the blanket soon he was walking by the street with the bundle.

—We'll dump it on the river. Remember to say that you never knew him before!" - Bruk said.

- Never in my life! - Fuller said, helping with the body that now was inside Bruk's truck.

In a few minutes, the were arriving to the bridge.

- "You stay on the driver's seat, boss! I'll handle the bundle!" - and saying this, he taken the corpse wrapped on the blanket and heaved above the railings; he let's go the burden and it splashes on the dark waters of the night.

- Labour accomplished, boss! Let's get going!" - Bruk said.

When at home, Anemone was happy to see him.

- Hi, dear! How was your trip?" - She asked.

- Very fine! Lots of work, but it's donned already. Do you miss me?" - he said, hugging him tenderly.

- Of course! I was afraid by night, thinking you were alone in another city! But now you are here - safe and sound." - Anemone said, kissing his lips. -

Fulber was rather nervous, thinking that the agent Lucio has more companions in his project, and his name and address could be known, but he keeps on working as nothing happens. A week later, Bruk come to town, saying: "any news, boss? About our departed friend?"

– None whatsoever. But I'm very scared: those guys mets must have realize Lucio is nowhere to be found, and could blame me for it."

Bruk sighed and said: "Why to worry, boss? Most sure he was working alone! Now he is gone, you have nothing to worry about! I come here to deliver you some money from the Bakery." – And saying that, he handled Fulber a wad of money bills. Anemone approaches and said: "Hi, Bruk! How is going at Guno city?"

– Fine, lady. Sells picking up, now they all know we sell quality products." – Bruk seplied.

– Good! I see you receiving a lot of money, Fulber! Just remember we have lots of debts to pay before you begin spending it!" – Anemone said, walking away.

– She is perfect to quench happiness out of me."

Fulker said, and Bruk moved his head and walked away.

At the bakery, Anemone said: "How much he brought today?"

– almost two million sopes." – Fulker said, putting the money on the table. She leafed on it, taken the major part and said: "Guess with this will be enough! Do whatever you like with the rest."

Fulker taken the reminding Bank bills, pocketed it and walked to the street – he was mad at her. From some time now, she has become a tyrant with the money. A car stopped close to him, and Bruk said, from the cabin: "– Hey, boss! Want a lift?"

– Where are you going, Bruk?"

– Back to Quno city! But first, a drink at a Bar! What about it, boss?" – Bruk blinked an eye.

– Yes, guess I need one." – Fulker said, mounting on the vehicle.

– Must be hard to resist to fight a person who behaves in a rude way." – Bruk said.

– Yes. From some time now, she has become greedy and resist my... impulses every time ying your presence." - Fulber said.

— Ok? Why?!" She asked, giggling.
— As I said, new in town. I only know my coworkers."
— And where do you work?"
— At the "Star Bakery". Do you know it?" — Fulber asked. The girl stops a taxi, and said: "Sorry! I get to go now! Good luck!"
— Good luck to you too." — Fulber said, and soon that car was gone. He felt a joy to be free to start a romance... but the cold of the night was increasing, so he hurry by the street in search of his hotel room...

At the next day, he went to that Bar at midday, and saw the young woman attending people. When his turn arrives to be served, he said. "Hi, Dana! How are you today?"

She widen her eyes and said: "Oh, you was at the street last night! Sorry, but I was eager to go to my house. What are you choosing to lunch now?"
— Give me the offer of the day, and a glass of wine."
— White or red?
— Red wine, Dana. You look pretty with that hat."

—Oh, the hat? It's part of the uniform."—
She smiled, walking away.

When returning with the requested food, he said: "Could I wait for you tonight? Perhaps we could talk a little more."—

She leave the dishes and the wine on the table and said: "Oh, I don't know! Let me think of it. I barely know you."—
And departed to the kitchen, making Fulber very anxious.

When paying, she see receives the money and said: "The answer is yes. I go out at 22 hours."

—Good! I'll be waiting"—Fulber said, feeling very happy.

At the bakery he was not working but receiving the money and making invoices. At closing time, Bruk said:
"Wish to accompany me to dinner? I am very hungry."

—I thought you were only drinking beer before going to sleep."—Fulber said.

—Well, sometimes lunch is not enough."

—Bruk assured him."

At the Bar, they seat at a table, and Dana appeared asking what they were to drink.

— To me, baby, I want a big plate with meat and vegetables, and a beer. And you, boss, what are you going to ask?"
— For me, only a beer." - Fuller said, smiling to Dana, who was blushed from the instant Bruk calls her "baby."
Bruk eats his plate as a castaway with 5 days without a mouthfull, so very soon he was saying: "I'm going now, boss - Here's when I left you alone."
— Don't worry! I like in here: it's warmer than at my hotel room!" - Fuller assured him, who laughed and departs in scant strides.
Dana approaches him, saying: "You better don't wait for me!"
— Why, Dana? something wrong?" Fuller asked, spellbound.
— Yes: your friend offended me and you said not a word, when he calls me a baby!" — and walked away.
Fuller stay at the counter and went to his rented room; he also calls on Anemone by phone; she was now com

After that call, Fulber takes a shower and went to bed...
In the morning, he worked at the Bakery,
collects the money, calls on Anemone.
-Hi! I'm seeing more money here than thought before.
—see? I'm sure Bruk is cheating on us!
Stay there!"
—Of course. And how are things going at your place?
-As usual! Flour raising in costs, and customers paying with delay." Anemone said while Fulber was hearing the machines in the back. Soon she ends talking, saying: "Well, now back to work! And don't leave the Bakery alone!"
Fulber, who was now eager to see Dana, but refrained, as the woman was not —All right. Go in peace." Fulber said, and at 17 hours Druk leaves the Bakery, and the workers weren't lazy at all. several trucks to load, others to pack, and at 20:20 hours Fulber close the gate with a sigh: "Without Druk's aid, the work was hard...

He decides to dine [illegible] where Dana worked... because meals were spicy and if she doesn't want to talk, good for him.
He seats at a table and soon she was at her side.
—What do you ~~choose~~ want to choose from the Menu, Sir?" She asked, very seriously.
—The offer of the day. And are you still mad at me?" Fulber asked.
—Do you want wine with your meal, Sir?"
—Yes. Bring me a very expensive wine and two glasses. I'm expecting a woman." Fulber said, and Dana glared at him and departs...

Twenty minutes later, Dana brought the dishes and the wine, saying: "Sorry for the delay, Sir. Too many clients today." and her face have cycles on it...
—Oh, I notice the empty tables." Fulber said, ironically —And there are no expensive wine at the cellar, Sir, so I brought you a cheap wine instead." She said, with half a sardonical smile.
—Oh don't bother for that! But you brought me just one glass! I asked you two glasses!" He said, looking at her.
—Oh? It's a bit late for the dame to appear, isn't it?" She mocked.
—Oh, no! The dame is here... and I'm talking with her. The most adorable woman in town: Miss Dana. —Fulber said. She smiled and departs...
He eats the steak and smashed potatoes, the apple, and a solitary glass of wine... really, it will have a sour taste...

When paying, she said: "Sorry. I was very mad at you."
—Don't mention it; you were right. It won't happen again."—Fulber murmured —Good." She said.
—Could I wait you today?—Fulber asked
She seems to think on it for a while, and said: "I'll be out at 23 hours."
—I'll be up front."—Fulber said, with a bumping heart...
At the street a wind was blowing, but he waits one hour and a half in front of that restaurant; at 23.2 ohours he saw her leaving the place, so he approaches her.
—Hi! Where do you want to go."—He asked.
—Oh... wherever there is peace! After a day in there, all I want is silence!"—I ana assured him...

whisky. She have 3 vainas emptied...
At the street, she trembled of cold, and he embrace her, saying: "let's go to my place? It's cold out here."
—I don't know... I feel dizzy with the change of temperature..." And he takes a taxi cab and arrived to his place; he asks for coffee to the administrator, and while waiting, she falls asleep on an arm chair.
The coffe arrives, but Filber didn't awake her - instead instead, he carried her to his bed, covers her with blankets, and seats drinking coffee... Sex was out of the way, with her asleep... so he ends up bedding alongside her, both dressed but without their shoes.

At 5.00 o'clock she awaken in a strange room with a man sleeping next to her. She also noticed they were fully dressed, so she relaxed somewhat and went to the bathroom, where he stayed fifteen minutes. At her went out, finds Fulker already asking for a breakfast for two.

—"Hi! I ordered breakfast for two. How do you sleep last night?" Fulker asked her.

—I'm embarrased! Me, sleeping at your bed! You must have cramps!" Dana said.

—Sorry about this that happened! But you were asleep so beautifully that I didn't dare to wake you up." Fulker said, approaching her. She moves to a side, and said: "I'm sorry for the inconveniences! I have one too much of a drink last night."

Fulker takes her in his arms and kissed her - but her lips were cold.

—Why do you kiss me? I was assuming we were to be only friends." Dana said.

—But I think I love you! Perhaps you could feel likewise, if you really try." - Fulber said, kissing her neck - she walks to the bathroom, saying: "I guess I must to leave! I must change clothes for a new day of work!"

Fulber realize that she was working at hard to get, and was very dissappointed ... when she went away, he close the door on her ...

At the Bakery he worked hard, and for a week he keeps lunching anywhere but where Dana was working.

- Dear: enough away from me! Return, please." - his wife called, and he returns to Joris city in an airplane, carrying what was earned at the Juno Bakery shop until then...

His wife was happy to see him back, and said: "It's curious! With you away from me, I was missing you every minute ... I promise myself never again to quarrel with you."

- Well, I promise myself the same thing, darling. I expect we could comply with our promises." - he said, embracing her tenderly.

He keeps on working, but not before a couple of weeks, their relationship become harsh as before his trip to Juno City ... where, of ~~cour~~ course, the memory of his romantic failure keeps on tormenting him ...

A month later, while delivering bread to a client, Fulker saw Dana working weighing bread. He approaches and said: "Hi, Dana! Remember me?"

She stared at him, saying: "Your face is familiar, but that's all I can remember."

Fulker finds that hard to believe, but let it pass, saying: "Are you staying in town for how many time?"

—Oh, a couple of weeks, only! I get bored of my former job. Here, the work is easy and I'm earning the same amount of money."

—Good to hear that." Fulker said. She stared at him, saying: "Your work is to deliver bread?"

—Yes, every once an then. There are others who also deliver bread from the same bakery." He replied, not willing to say he was the owner of a Bakery.

—Good. Then we'll see more often.— She said, returning to her work.
Back to the Bakery, the world of Fulber was wobbling once again. He have realized that he will be not satisfied with life until romancing beautiful Dana.
For that reason, at the next day he was again delivering bread where Dana was working. But he finds her very differently dissposed.
—Hi, Dana. Good to see you.— He said approaching the woman. She looked harassed and said: "But not for long! I'll quit working here."
—Oh, what a pity! And I, believing we could see each other daily.— Fulber said. She weighed some bread for a customer and said: "a pity. But if you want to talk with me a little longer, wait me at 20:00 hours."
—To day at 20 hours.— Fulber repeated afraid to have heard otherwise.

—Yes, today. Are you coming?" She asked.
—Certainly." Fulber said, walking out of the shop.
At 20.00 hours he was already waiting near that shop, inside a car. When she walks out of her job, he jumps out of the car and calls her name.
—Dana!" and she saw him and approaches.
—Right on time! I brought a car; let's visit a quiet place." He said, opening a door.
—Is it "yours?" She asked in surprise.
—Yes, but let's talk about you while I drive." Fulber said, starting the engine. She said: "There's little to say but a lot to be worried about."
—Why?" He asked, taking a curve.
—Well, I quit at my former job and today I quit this other by the same reason... it only changes the bosses and the addresses..." Dana confided, and she was trembling. Fulber set the heat at maximum, waiting for more explanations, and indeed Dana added: "At the Restaurant, one of the owner's son try to obtain something more than my service at the tables, so I slapped him... guess he lost a teeth!"

—Wow! You must hit hard with those beautiful little hands!"— Fuller commented, while parking in front of a Bar. Inside, and in a private, she keeps on saying: "And in here, the owner waits in a corridor for me, and try to kiss me! So I..."

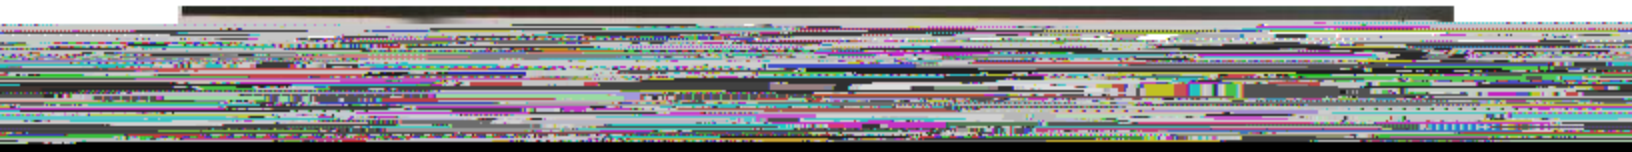

—slapped him in the face?!" Fuller asked mildly.

—No! To this guy I hit with my knee!" She laughed, remembering the pain and the surprise on his former Chief's face!!!

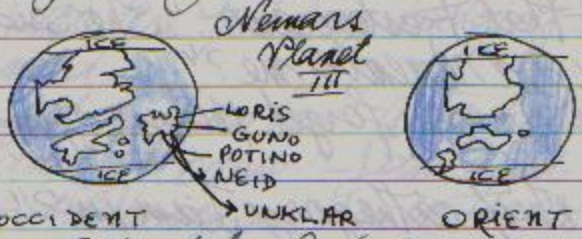

Again she asked for a Vaina, and Fuller for a whisky. They talked about the war, the jobs and when she finish her fourth "Vaina", She said: "I must, to go now! Perhaps tomorrow

I will be searching for another job."
—Where are you log lodging? Fulber asked.
—Not far from here! At an hotel - not really fancy, of course." - Dana said - —I'll bring you there in the car." - Fulber announced.
—Quite there's room for some cars on the back." - She said, smiling.
When at her room, Fulber was trembling but not because of cold. She stared at him. Dana: "Are you tired? Perhaps you making love again !!!

Fulber takes her to Guno city and away from Anemone for obvious reasons, and rented an apartment in a building to the north of the city.

—You are a wealthy man.— She said, while they were at a Restaurant.

—Not quite! I have a partner in my business."

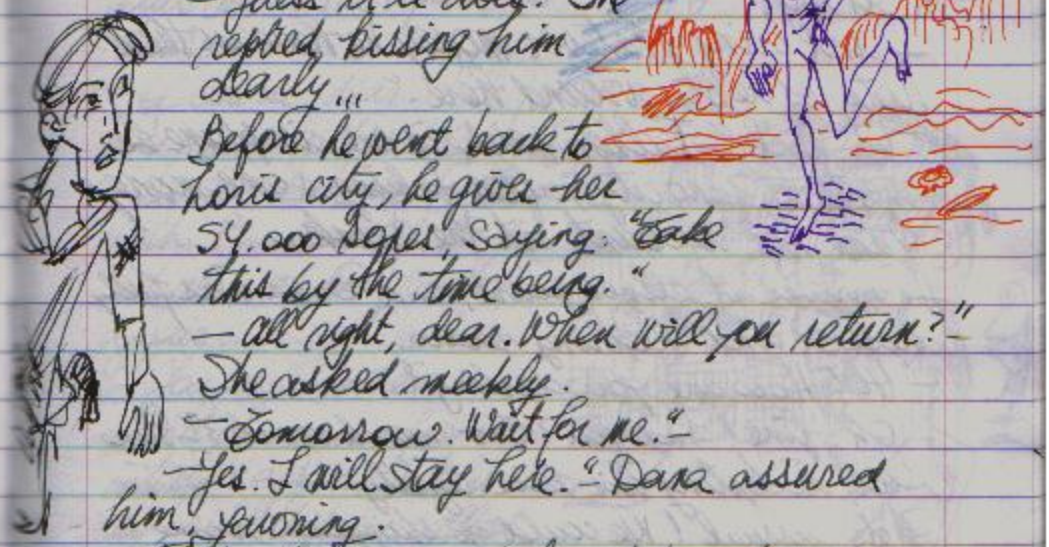

—Just the same.!— Dana said, touching her hand.

—I will leave you for tonight! I must attend my job. Hope you could understand.— Fulber said.

—Oh, yes. I'm the most understanding woman.— She said, seriously. She was begining to think Fulber was a married man, perhaps with sons and daughters and that the adventure will be short living.

—You don't need to work anymore,

Dana. I will provide."
—Oh, yes? Very generous. But I like to have my own money. I cannot be asking you for clothes, meals, shoes... everytime I need of those." — Dana said.
—How much you were earning before?" he asked kissing her lips.
—239.000 Sopes a month. Plus tips.
"300.000 will suffise?" He asked.
—Guess it'll does." She replied kissing him dearly...
Before he went back to Horis city, he gives her 54.000 Sopes, saying: "Take this by the time being."
—all right, dear. When will you return?" She asked meekly.
—Tomorrow. Wait for me."
—Yes. I will stay here." Dana assured him, savoring.
Fulber takes an airplane to be at Horis before nightfall. He gets hurry to see Dremore, and said: "How things are going, darling?"

-The ussual: lots of job! Where were you?"
-Talking with customers"- He replied.
-Well, to get in Touch with debtors is always a good thing!"- She said, smiling.
That night he makes love to her, and in the morning he said: "I receive letter from Buck. He wants me to be at Juno to talk with future customers."
-All right! Hope you make a good deal over there."
-I'll try.
-and bring whatever money he have in there! Lots of debts around here."
-I will."- Fulker said, in an airplane he went to Juno city, after taking some money from his account at the Bank.
He arrives at eleven hours, and Dana was fully dressed and hearing radio.
-Hi! How are you, darling?
-Oh, fine! And you? Too much work?"- Dana said, accepting his kiss lightly.
-As ussual! We could go shopping... some more dresses for you... shoes?
-yes! But with the money you gives me! And I guess you will be bored... I'm very choosy!"- Dana said, while he embrace her.

Being with her was intoxicating for Fulber, and he makes love to the woman, finding her so delicious that Heaven's Gates were on her ... or so he thought.

— Of course, dear. I'll put in order my new clothes." Dana said.

At the Bakery, Fulber talks with Bruk about the job but also of his personal affair...

— You see, I'm here mostly because of an intimate affair. I told my wife that you called me."

— Oh? Intimate affairs?" — Bruk asked, not willing to know much.

— Yes. So I'll be around... I don't

Fulber stayed a week enjoying her beauty, and returns Nori's city for 3 days but Anemone forces him to stay 2 days more.
When returning at last to Juno City, she was absent and come home late and smelling of alcohol.

—"Hi, Dana. Where were you been?" He said, trying to conceal his fury. She was - at first - surprised to see him, but then she regain confidence and said: "I was so bored waiting for you, that I went out to dance."

—With men?"

—Obviously! But only with guys to know how to dance. I see nothing bad in that." Dana assured him.

—I dislike it very much! You in the arms of another men, horribly!" Fulber said. She looks at his face and said: "So were there, what do you expect me to do? Boring to death?" Fulber knew that his doses ces were provo king her to go out and have more than one affair - the chick wasn't a nun - she never was!

- Well, but promise me you will not go out to dance alone! I pretend to be your only man!" Fulber said, and in a flash he saw Anemone's face ☺ in front of him.

She seats on the verge of the bed and crying she said: "I don't know what do you expect of me! A lover, a servant? A slave?"

- No, you are my woman! And I love you." Fulber said, seating at her side. She smelled to liquor and that prevents him to go further.

Dana went to the bathroom and later she bedded in silence. Fulber seats at a chair, thinking until time passes and went to bed, getting asleep without any joy in his heart.

At the next day, he awoke and dressed to go to work, but Dana awakes and said: "Where do you go?"

—To work, where money is produced. Where else?" —Fulber said.
—If you let me, I could help at your Bakery."— She said, from the bed.
—No. You already Worked enough in your life. Now you rest." —Fulber commented.
She waits a moment to say: "Are you coming for lunch?
—Yes... thirteen hours."
—I'll wait for you." —She said, meekly.
—Nice girl." —Fulber said, kissing her good bye.

Once in the street, he was considering not to return over at her side: she provokes a rift between the two, and he was angry, imagining her dancing and smiling to strangers, seated with a guy, and drinking liquor as... well, the bachelor she did was...
Cruk saluted him and said: "You look awful to day."
—Yes? Well... I have a bad night." —Fulber replied.

– We have 3 new clients! They promise to buy more than 2000 kilos every day. – Bruke said. Fulker stared at him, saying:
– "And could we produce as much as these?
– We produce 3000 kilos per day. But we already are selling 2300, 2500 kilos per day. We need more furnaces, and three or four more workers." – Bruke said.
– That'll cost money."
– Yes. But with the future revenues, you'll recover very fast." – The man said.

Fulker bought 2 furnaces and hired 3 persons to do the job. That takes a month to complete; now he was staying 3 days at Loris and 3 days at Gino city. After 2 months of this, Dana said: "Wish we could make a tour, dear."
– Where?" – Fulker asked, afraid she could choose Loris city, where almost everyone knowed who he was and who was his wife!
– There's a tour towards the NORTH west coast.

9/6. Dover 388 Metallic.

They say there's a river and plenty of animals to see... complet security at all times."

Fuller kissed her and at the next morning he was buying 2 tickets for a tour to the south West...

The Continent has no cities to the West side: only piery Wilderness, but the Vendors assured him that they have a nice resort near the river, plenty of guards to keep animal away, and nightly entertainments.

"You will not get bored, my friend!" The Tourist Agent said, handling him the tickets for a full five days of relax at the Resort hotel...

They also shows him a view of the place; a big 7 stories building surrounded by trees, with a dock for boats not 300 meters away; lake Morbius with its lavish Vegetation along its borders...

—300.000 Sopes each, and that includes 4 days lodging, lunch and dinner. You could promenade around, no dangerous animals whatsoever."

-Fish excursions, use of boats?" Fulber asked.
-You should pay extra for those other items; but I assure you that the cost are very economic." The attendant said.

Fulber paid the bills, and two days later they were climbing the stairs into a big yellow helicopter; with them, another 20 tourists, using cameras and loading suitcases...
-Is it safe to travel in a helicopter?" Dana asked one of the crew before climbing up.
-Tested and double tested, Madam! This "bird" has flown 40 times this year!" The man said with a knowing smile in his face...

-"We'll be flying for about 2 hours, and think that we'll land on a nice hotel where there are everything ready to provide you all a nice stay." The copilot said - a lecture he always administer over the most nervous of the tourists - usually women...
Once seated, the engine starts and for a moment the pilot keeps on landed, in order to beat the mechanism; and after fifteen minutes, the helicopter begin to ascend and advance to the north.

-Fine weather! It'll be a nice flight. Enjoy the view, gentlemen!" The copilot said by the loudspeaker Fulber was troubled as he has not called by phone to his wife, so now he was worried - anemone was no fool and soon he will have a hurricane into his hands.

-What are you thinking, Fulber? - Dana asked.

-Oh! Well... in that lake. I hope you will like to travel in a boat." - He lied. She stared at him, and said:

-Really that you were thinking in that resort? "You look troubled... perhaps another woman in your life?"

-Why you say that? I'm relaxed." - He said, but Dana was sure he was hiding something and she was getting bored of his absences...

Also, she was being aroused by the copilot, who looks on her with smiles and intentions.

The sound of the engines buzzed on; one hour later, the engine coughed and stopped, and the pilots try to land as best as they could, and crashed on a forest.

Fulber regains conscience and smelled the fuel all around him - he was wet with that grimy substance. He crept out the cabin, who was empty... or so he thought.

- Fulber! Oh, Fulber! Get out of the helicopter! -

- Someone was shouting. He crept by - over the broken branches and the metallic debris... An explosion dumfounded him, throwing his body a dozen paces away.

His clothes begin to catch fire, but some one was quenching the fire with dirt.

- Oh, boy! We thought you dead! - The copilot said, smiling and helping him to stand on his feet.

- Thanks. - Fulber said; Dana approaches now, saying: 'Oh dear!' - And she embrace him, sobbing - Fulber notice that her hair was dark with grime from the fuel and debris.

The rest was on a clearing; she said:

"There are several persons injured! Oh, why people of old age likes these [two] dangerous trips? This is for young persons!" And she looks on the Copilot, who said: "Mr. Fulber, let me present myself! Seems we have a long way to go, and it's better to know our names: mine is Norton."

— Hi, Norton. I'm, as you already heard, Fulber, and this is my woman, Miss Dana."

The Copilot smiled and said: "Yes, she already told me her name."

When in front of the rest of the passengers, Fulber realize that three old ladies have, probably, broken ribs - they were moaning and trying to breath; 2 other old men were on the ground, grabbing their broken legs, and the pilot (who later gives his name as Humberto) was trying to bandage the injured legs using strips of his own jacket.

The fire at the helicopter was roaring and the black smoke was drifting towards them, making hard to breathe. —

Pilot Wastoner. —

Suddenly, Dana went to the ground without a sound. Fulber carried her unto softer ground, and the pilot observed her, and said: "Post traumatic disorder. We can do small thing here, so let her rest."

— Is she all right?" Copilot Norton asked.

— We'll see tomorrow morning. A good rest is all we could give, allow her to have, in our present circumstances." The pilot said. Fulber wasn't at all happy with the interest the Copilot was showing and said:

— Hope my woman survives all this tragedy well! I'll fight any enemy in sight, if necessary." And stared at Norton, who walks some paces away.

Two hours later, a fog spread among the trees, blotting the already scant visual scope they had. Sounds of broken branches, sounds of the breeze blowing over the upper part of the trees were on going through that night.

In the morning, Pilot Wastoner said, he after looking of everyone:

— The three old ladies have passed away."

Fulton heard 2 men moaning in pain and Wastoner said: "Our two old timers are now with fever."

At midday the moanings changes to yellings of pain. Fulber saw how Dana awakes, and said: "Where am I"?"
— In the forest. Our helicopter crashed yesterday. "Fulber said, looking at the pilot, who was staring 20 paces away.
— Oh, dear! I thought it was a bad dream!"
— She sobbed in terror.

— Soon they will be investigating why we don't arrive in time to the resort Edel. A little patience and we'll be rescued" Fulber promised — crossing his fingers for luck.
Fulber takes her on a small journey trying to find fruits, but they found nothing.
— I detest that smell of burned petrol! How disgusting" She complained, as there-mains of the huge helicopter beeps pestering the air.

When back to the clearing, the sound of lamentations were on the air; apart from the 2 agonizing males, a woman of their age was also lamenting to see one of them in such bad shape...

—Miss Gregoria! Do not cry! Soon a rescue party will arrive and your husband will be treated as it should!" Pilot Wastanor said, but the lady keeps on. The not injured ones move some 50 meters away, and the Copilot Norton said: "On a rough estimation, we are still 300 kilometers from our compound."

—And towards Jurolity?" Dana asked.

—Lady, we are some 2000 kilometers away! — Norton said

—1400 kilometers, more or less. But from the Resort, not 250 kilometers away." Pilot Wastanor assured them all.

—are you thinking in a trip by foot? Are you mad? We must wait here, where the rescue party will see the blackened remains of that old helicopter! A man said.

"I haven't say we should be walking towards the Resort Hotel!" Pilot Norton said.
—Of course. We'll stay here. We need water and food." Pilot

Wastoron Said.

Five days later, still no rescue party has arrived...

— Perhaps we are out the standard course! And they are searching elsewhere but in here." — An old man said.

— We cannot stay here any longer! We have thinned since we arrive: food is scarce here and..." — Was saying a woman, but pilot Wastoron interrupted and said: "Pardon me, Miss, but we must accept privations if we want to survive! I'm sure that soon the rescue party will arrive."

That night there was nothing to eat, and Fulber murmured to Dana: "Else we move from here, or we starve to death."

Her eyes in the half lit light of the fire shone and she said: "What do you propose? Leave those people and walk away?"

— Yes, or we'll share their doom! Old people are unscapable of to walk for days on, but we are younger than them. I know we can make it."

Fulber murmured. She moves her head and said: "You don't even know where that hotel resort is located!"

— But I know where's the river! If we follow the river, we'll hit the goal! They said it's at the side of the river!" — Fulber said.

— and what are WE going to eat?" Dana asked, still irresolute.

— More than what we have eaten here! That's for sure." — Fulber said, thinking in the possibility of to end eating toads!

Dana become adamant = she will never walk through swamps and arid mountains with delicate shoes — the only ones she have now.

— Well, it was only an idea" — Fulber said, looking at her face, that was beautiful without being sorry: the starvation makes her look like a doll with big eyes.

When trying to hunt he said to Copilot Norton: "We really are walking towards extinction here! I want to walk towards the Resort hotel and bring here help."

Norton smiled and said: "I overhear what you were saying to your lady. I am from your same idea. Too many days here, and no rescue party at all."
— So, are we trying to bring help or not?
— Fulber said.
— Yes, but let us wait for the next dawn. I'll wait you there." — And he pointed a distant birch tree.
— All right." — Fulber said, and that night he makes love to Dana as ardently as he was capable — just in case he never see her again...

At the next day, they depart in silence, and at midday they were trotting through the forest.
— No signs of fruits." — Norton said.
— Yes, we've have taken all that was available, and its nothing left." — Fulber said, already panting.

At midday they saw the Blue river and certainly its waters looks blue under the star rays.
— I guess I'll take a bath." — Norton said, and after taking his clothes off, he swimm on that river. Fulber also bathed there. Taking off all the grime of the past weeks on the forest.

While on the waters, they heard an engine and saw a bright red colored machine appears at the river banks.

— Look! A vehicle!" Norton said; it was a four wheeled car with a man visible through the windshield. They come out of the water and approached it.

— Hello! Strange vehicle you are on!" Norton said. The driver opens the side door and descended, saying: "What are you doing here, kilometers away from civilization?"

— We are the survivors of an helicopter crash." Hulber said.

— "Oh, the missing helicopter from the Resort Hotel?" The man said, with bright eyes.

— Yes! Do you hear about us?"

— Who don't? It was national news! Well, for least of a week, in any case." The man said, rearranging his saggy pants

— We have some more companions some kilometers away. Could ya help us?" — Norton asked.

The man chuckled and said: "I'm here just because of that! There's a reward of 5 million Sopes for anyone who could give sound notice of the whereabouts. I'll call by radio and they will be here soon enough."

And he enters his vehicle and calls by radio waves. After a while, he signalled for them to approach, and said:

— All right buddies! You just wait here and it'll be all right! A team is already preparing for the rescue."

— Have you any idea on how are they going to locate us?" — Eulage asked.

— "I have a radio beacon for them to pick up! Relax!" — The man said.

— There's an intriguing question for me to ask you: how could you possible arrives here in your tiny car?" — Norton asked.

— As I was interested in a quick way to grab some money, the minute I heard there was a reward for the one spotting your people, I depart in my boat, and explore with the car." The man explains.

– A boat? Where
– Down river
– any others with you?
– More than I desire! They eat too much from my provisions." The guy said.
2 hours later, the driver said: "Soon it'll be dark. No way I'll stay here for more time! I'll be going to my boat."

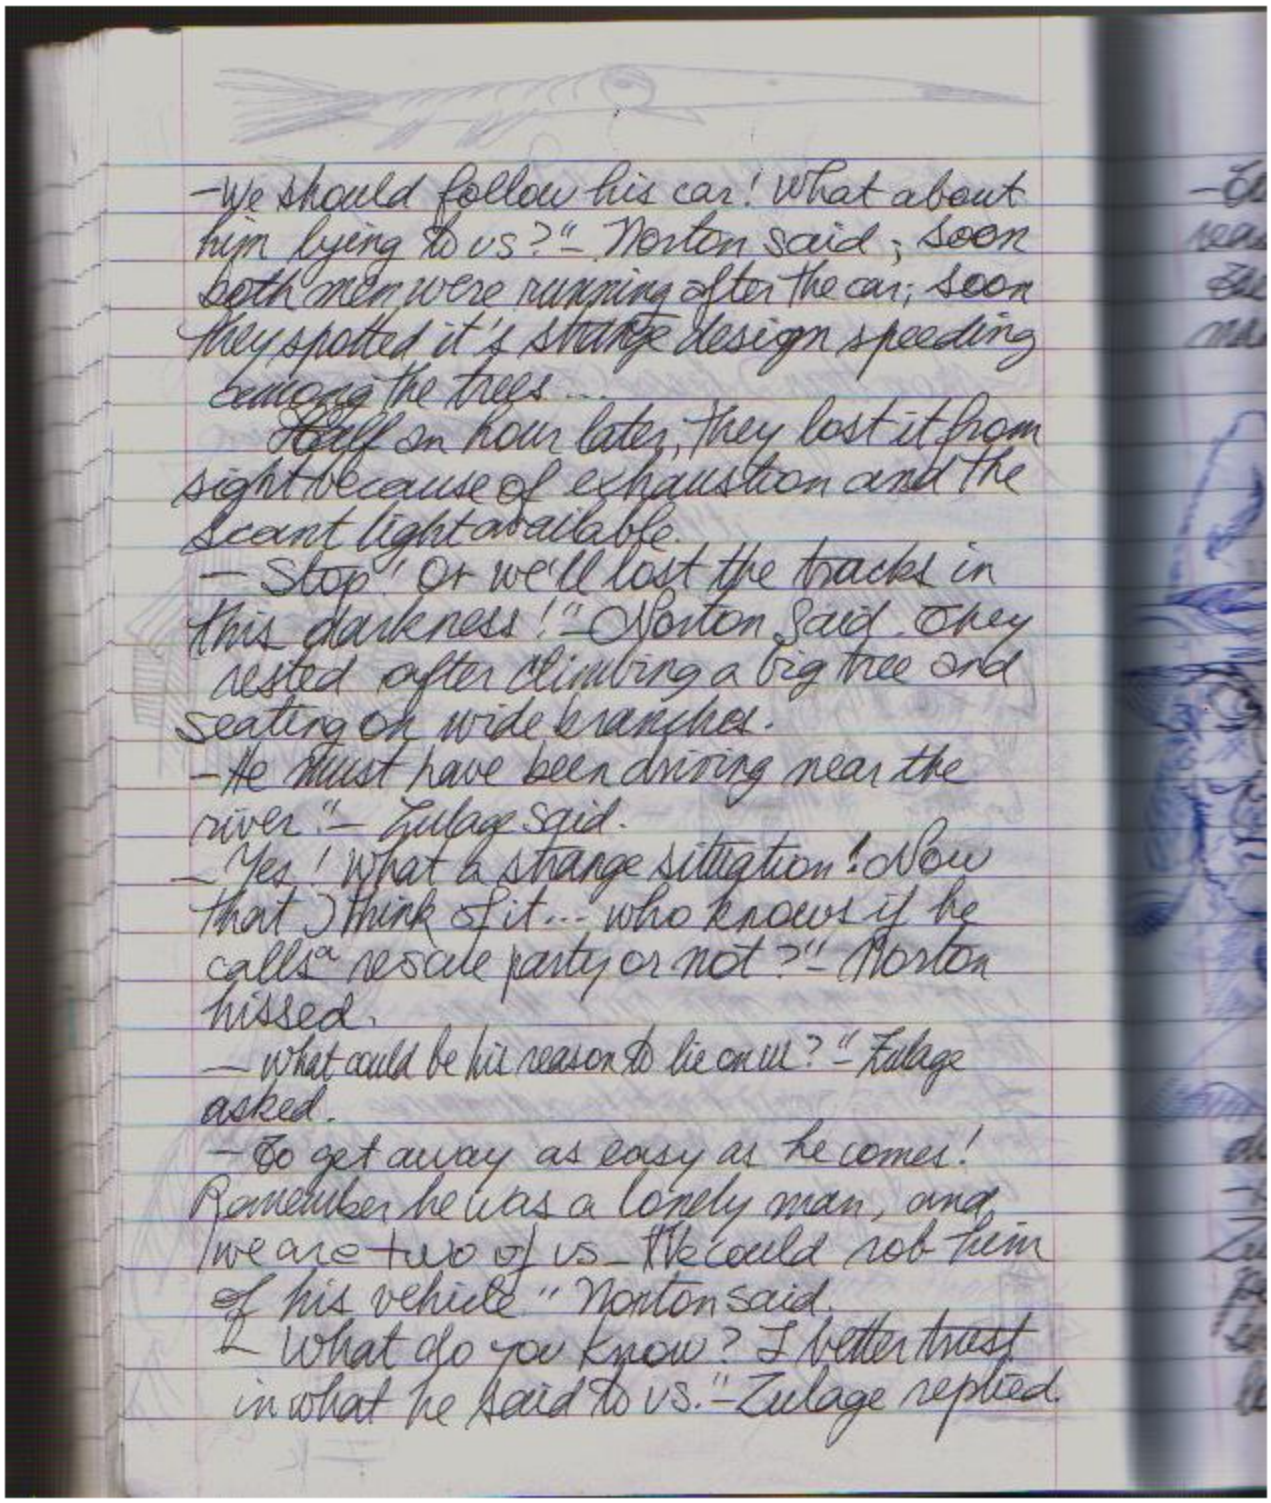

– "We could wait here." Zulage said.
– Suit you self!" The man said, departing. The electric car makes a zooming sound while advancing by the forest. Norton smiled and said –
Do you believe they will come?"
– Why not?" Zulage asked.

-We should follow his car! What about him lying to us?"- Norton said; soon both men were running after the car; soon they spotted it's strange design speeding among the trees...

Half an hour later, they lost it from sight because of exhaustion and the scant light available.

-Stop! Or we'll lost the tracks in this darkness!"- Norton said. They rested after climbing a big tree and seating on wide branches.

-He must have been driving near the river."- Zulage said.

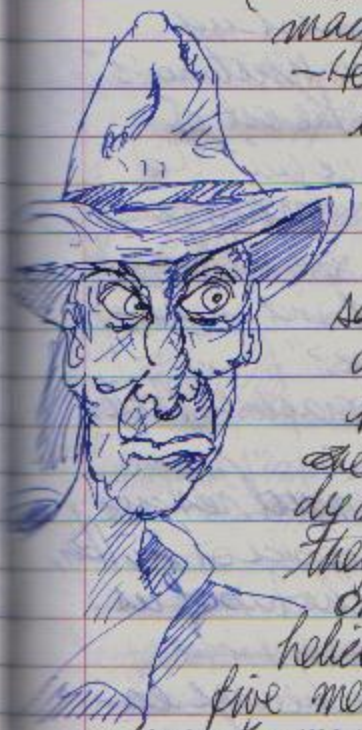

-Yes! What a strange situation! Now that I think of it... who knows if he calls a rescue party or not?"- Norton hissed.

-What could be his reason to lie on it?"- Zulage asked.

-To get away as easy as he comes! Remember he was a lonely man, and we are two of us- He could rob him of his vehicle." Norton said.

-What do you know? I better trust in what he said to us."- Zulage replied.

-Tomorrow we'll discover who of us have reason." - Norton said, preparing to sleep ...
The fog soon settled over the whole area, making darkness the more menacing.
In the morning, they heard a machine in the distance.
-Helicopter!" - Zulage murmured, incredulous.
-"Let's find the source of that sound!" - Norton said, stumbling down the tree in his hurry.
The sound was steady and firm. Soon they were looking on a blue color helicopter. Around it, five men were busy carrying down the machine some bags.
-Hey, you. Rescue party, indeed?" - Zulage said. Startled, 2 of them pointed weapons against them, but seeing they were unarmed, they low their rifles -

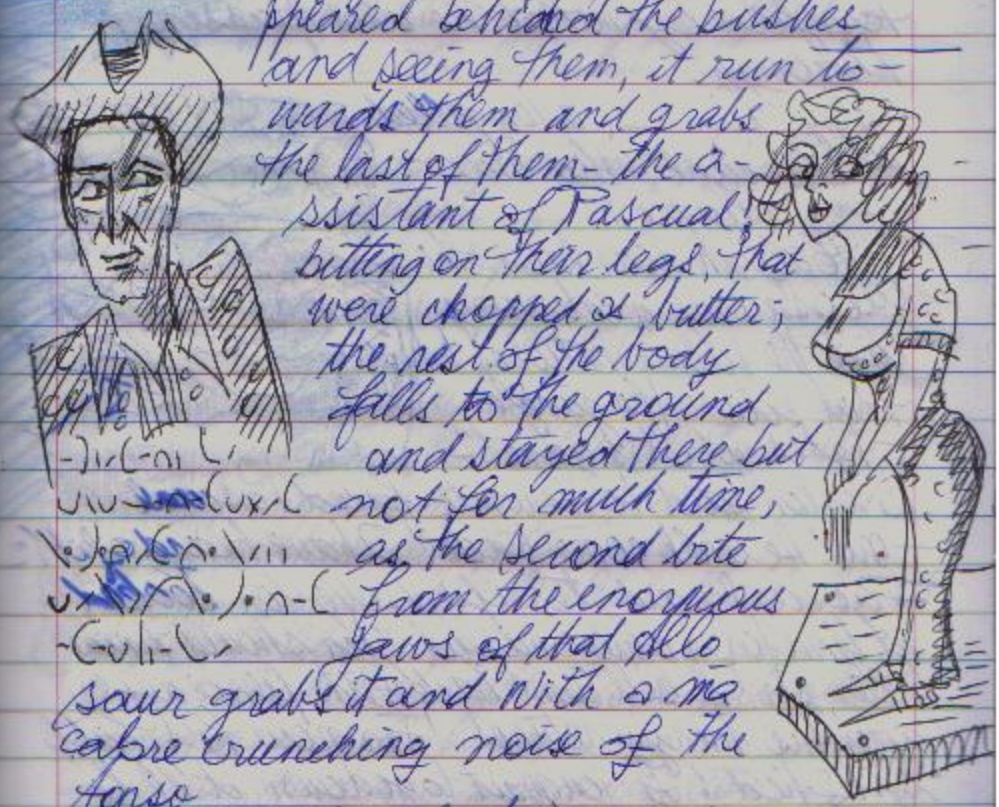

-I'm Elwan, the guy in charge here. Who are you?
- Castaways of the jungle! Remnants of the crashed helicopter happy trip to the Hotel Resort."
A large man approaches and said: "I'm Pascual. Who of you is Wastonor?"
-The pilot Wastonor is with the rest of the passengers. I'm Norton the copilot. We've crash landed, and we're trying to get to the Hotel Resort."
The man looked surprised and asked= "And are they in good shape?"
- Some clients dead after the crash." Norton said.
-Very well. Let's go there! We must rescue them!"- Pascual said. Norton looks at Fulber, saying: "No need to go there the two of us. You could wait here."
Fulber accepted, and soon he was eating a sandwich and drinking a beverage.
Norton, Pascual and another man went away, carrying backpacks full with food and medicines - also, Pascual and the other man were using rifles.
Norton was guiding them now for 3

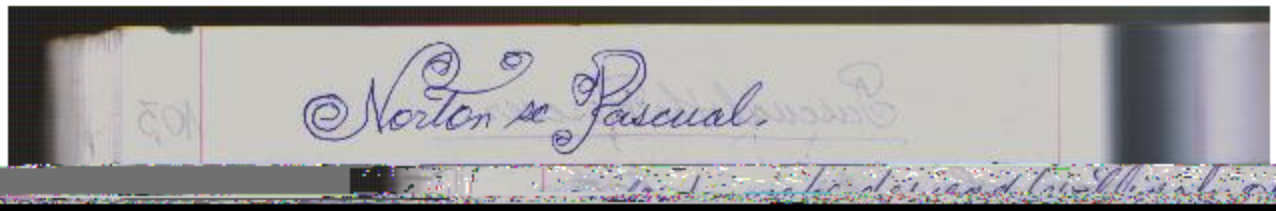

Pascual the Rescuer:

hours non-stop, when a fiery ground stopped the two in their tracks.
- Dinosaur!
- Carnivore or herbivore?
- Let's hide!

They approached to a big tree, but the ugly head of a dilosaurus appeared behind the bushes and seeing them, it run towards them and grabs the last of them- the assistant of Pascual, biting on their legs, that were chopped as butter; the rest of the body falls to the ground and stayed there but not for much time, as the second bite from the enormous jaws of that dilosaur grabs it and with a macabre crunching noise of the bones finished his (for him) scant meal, the dilosaurus banged on the tree trunk in Norton & Pascual.

– We make this palisade because Coelophysis were pestering us very much."

With the noise of their talk, the rest of the refugees appeared. Norton saw not pilot Wastenor, Dana and others among them.

– But, there are several people missing here? what happens?" – he asked. The old lady said: "They're out, hunting! Perhaps they will return soon."

– I hope so! we must talk to the rescue party – they come in a helicopter!" – Norton said, to the joy of them.

From his backpack he gave them every thing it contains: chocolat, biscuits, carbonated water, candies, almonds, dried milk (to mix with water.)

At 19 hours the rest arrives; they were carrying some edible roots, lizards, and 2 small eggs. They were amazed to see Norton back.

– Tell us more! Could we go there in safety?" Wastenor asked.

– Certainly! We must depart at dawn; I know the way." – Norton assured him, giving a chocolat bar to Miss Dana, who was very thin and her body forms totally gone by starvation.

They try to sleep, but scant hours were of benefit sleep - There was much expectation to be relaxed.

- And my husband... how is he? Why he is not here with you?" - she asked him.

- Well... he was very weak and he decides [illegible] at the helicopter." - Norton said, and she was puzzled by he said they were lovers, so he should have wanted to be with her, and to rescue her... she moved away, with Sadness...

At dawn, everyone was ready; the older persons helped by the scant younger ones because yes, the trip was made for old age, most of all, people with nothing else to do in the world but to wait for the death - the final hour expected, but not hoped for...

Norton soon realize that the march by the woods were slow and full of dangers, so he was on the vanguard, looking for a safe way.

But soon he saw several Coelophysis, that begin chirping and closing unto the group. First one tried to bite an old lady, then others jumping on the slow pacing guys, making scare and also making ladies yells - alerting animals of their presence...

At midday they were fighting a horde of yellow green Coelophysis, that run and bite repeatedly. More than one old lady were not willing to keep on walking but begging for a retreat to their flimsy compound ~~mark~~ kilometers away!

- Not possible ladies! Men! We must fight the animals!" - Norton said, and with the scared able men they banged (or try to) the beasts, that didn't go away but keeps their distance,

- We must keep on!" - Norton recommended.

already exhausted!" Wastonon said.
—Perhaps some of us could go there and bring weapons to fight the beasts!" Dana said; Norton looked at her, saying: "Good idea! They didn't give me weapons, but I saw others at the vehicle, using them."
Wastonon rubbed his chin and said: "Yes, it's the alternative. And bring food! Those old timers are hungry."
—Well... let's go!" Norton said, taking Dana by the hand, but she takes her hand away, saying, "let's go and don't waste time!"
With that rebuttal Norton lost the scant interest in her, moreover that now she was nothing but a sac of bones."
They trotted, now freed from the old timers, and in scant 2 hours they arrived to the helicopter; Fulber approaches Dana to salute her, and she slapped his face, saying: "You double crosser! You left me alone!"
—But I..."
— No! Norton went to fetch me here... and while you were resting here in safety!" Dana said, climbing into the helicopter where a crewman gives her some clothes to use (as hers were in rags) hot coffee (ersatz) and biscuits. When Fulber went into the helicopter, she was already asleep.

After a brief conversation with the crew, Norton convinced them to return to the Resort hotel to rest and return at the next day for the rest of the tourists.

With the sound of the engine, Dana awakes and seeing Fulber next to her, she said: "I'm very mad at you! You better don't talk to me."

Fulber looked at her, realizing her former beauty was gone after the starvation period in the jungle and keeps silence for the rest of the trip, that takes less than an hour.

At the hotel everyone went to receives them: the hotel Manager, Mr. Herjor, welcomes them, offering free stay and the principal suites for them to stayed - adding: "This time every service is for free as long as you want to stay here! The cost of what you paid will be reimbursed in full!"

come speeches after all she was through, and asked for a suite "right away". Fulber follows her, not knowing if she was going to accept his company or not --- and as she said nothing, that night they slept together, after a very long time under the shower...

At the next day, they sewed them a abundant breakfast; the Manager sent a Vendor to offer them clothes.

– I want three full attires! And shoes to match!" Dana said to the man; Fulber also asked for clothes and shoes and called to ___ in order to be sent money, that he has not after his ordeal at the jungle.

While they were at it, Norton was already guiding three men with rifles through the forest – luckily for them, the rest of the tourists has managed to advance a couple more kilometers, so they were found earlier than first thought.

– Thanks you! You are our Guardian Spirit!" The old people kept repeating to Norton, who dismiss their thanks with gentle phrases...

The news Media gives ample coverture to the rescue, so unfortunately for Fuller, Anemone learns everything his husband was doing at her back; at his return to Nova city, she said: "Give me the divorce or I'll kill ya, doble grosser!"

With that, he lost her wife and half his possessions - he retains the bakery at Juno city.

"Well, it was time for that witch to know you are mine!" Dana told him, when all was finished with Anemone.

- I'm sorry about my daughter." - He replied.

- You could go there and visit her every time you want! I will not complain in any way! The divorce is among the married couple, not with the sons!" Dana repeated what everyone on Juno city likes to say in these cases...

Clients become less and less in number, and it was because they have read about the adventure of Fuller, owner of that Bakery, and took sides with Anemone, the betrayed woman."

"Selle are plummeting down, dear. We will be living in a more ascetic way." Fulber said to Dana, 3 months later.

She looked at her from the dormitory and said:

"What? Cannot you sell under another name?"

"Not in here, darling; everyone will discover my changes through the lot of curious people that are around?" Fulber said, very worried.

"Where, then?" Dana asked.

"Potino"

"Oh, that? A small town. Unklar is best." Dana said.

"Unklar." Fulber said, imagining him and waiting.

After a row with his ill-paid workers, he decided to sell the machines; he obtains half the price he wanted, but together with what they pay him for his house at Geno, One day he takes passage on a steamship towards Uxbla city ... where he was going to accept any kind of job available ...

At the "Venture" steamship, captain Charnol, he was spending his days almost secluded at his cabin; at deck a fine rain of charcoal debris floated all day long due to the fact the chimney was expelling more residuos than other best maintained ~~(his)~~ engines.

The rest of the passengers were merchants, gossiping on prices of cotton, wood, and others that they trade. At dinner time they seat for hours at the dinning place, but Fuller just eat and depart, not willing to mingle with anyone.

He knew now that the whole trip takes 7 days to complete; at the fifth they turn North, going steady by the gulf of Uxbla towards the West side of it.

Miss Lana Durgal MS

Finally they disembark at Urkelar city, that shows its buildings and other houses on the incline of a wide chain of small hills, green-looking forests that represents the good quality of the land.

Men used small hats and wide pants; women wear short tunics that permits to admire their long white legs; everyone working (or so it seems) and not curious; he almost feel like a ghost as the people don't stare at him, ever.

He lodged at a fine hotel, because he was needing to give a nice impression; this time he spent hours talking at the dinner tables and at gambling places, searching for an offer to work as a partner, or into a project.

Three months later, everyone thought him a millionaire from Juno, expending time at a leisure... he was now being invited at parties - he also gives a couple of parties using Restaurants for that matter...

A lady soon was interested in his company: Lana Durgal - or widower to Kurter Forningloforte, the king of the railroads - she has already dilapidated half of her hereditary rights in fabulous parties and unfortunate investments.

Once at his bed, she become a kitty cat, willing to leave all her business on Ful ber hands. He was believing it until he try to know in depth (and in single detail) the scope of her investments: he collides with lawyers and Managers that knows better than Miss Durgal the real situation of their properties and experiments with half broken Industries.

– You must call them here to present their state of affairs! I cannot impro ve a thing without a sound start. I Fulber said.

– But those things bored me so much!" Miss Lana Durgal said.

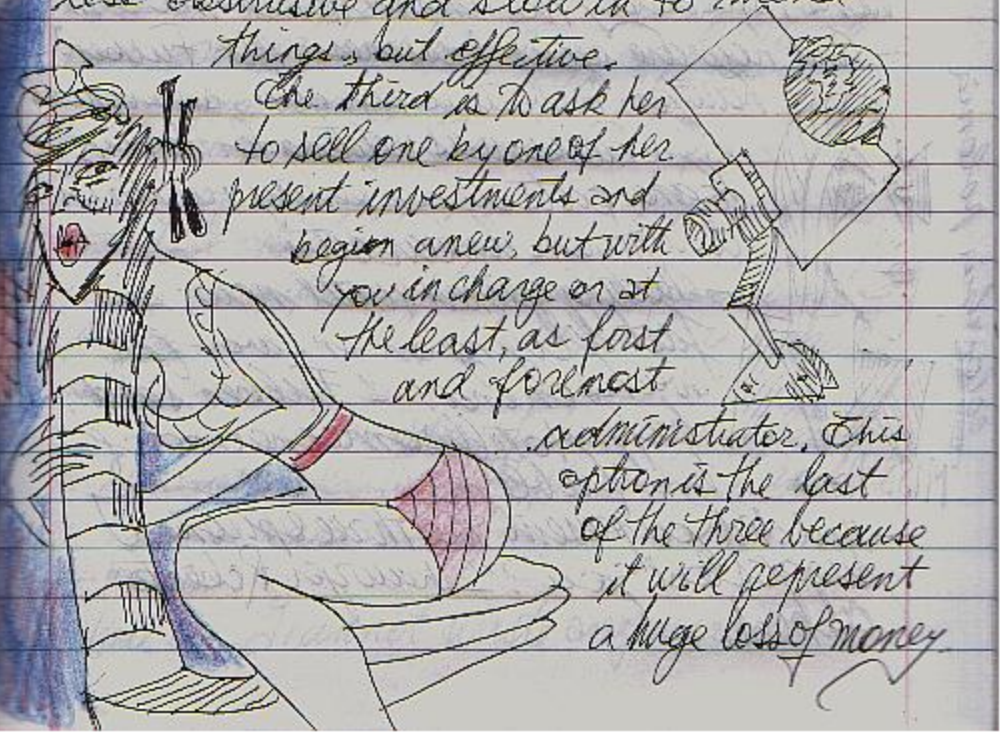

– It's only a day or two! – He said, kissing her lips.

A week later, he was receiving Managers at her house; with the help of a lawyer, they keep on learning what those Administrators have donned with her enterprises. If In the documents

Roberto the Lawyer.

all was looking good.

At the third day, the lawyer Mr. Roberto said: "Now you have three options, and the first is to ask for a wide authorization of your girlfriend Lady Dana Durgal, so you could open safe box, insert your nose on monthly financial issues, back and forth in time, and ask recommendations from organizations that prevents huge monetary mistakes in the future. Option two is to ask to represent her in any administative reunion with the power to vote in her behalf: this way is less obstrusive and slow in to mend things, but effective. The third is to ask her to sell one by one of her present investments and begin anew, but with you in charge or at the least, as first and forenast administrator. This option is the last of the three because it will represent a huge loss of money.

– Thanks for your kind advice, Mr. Roberto. – Fulber said and went to Lady Lara Dergal, who heard the first option and said: "I will give you full authorization but, later, my dear. Let's study facts a little more."

Fulber smiled (contrariwise to his feelings) and said: "Yes, but remember that you will be losing money every day that you delay an answer."

And they keep going to fine Restaurants, making fancy trips and idling – every time Fulber touch the theme in their conversations, she delay the answer once more.

– And how are your bussiness, Mr. Fulber?" lawyer Roberto asked him, an evening when Fulber was waiting for Lady Lara outside a Beauty Parlor in downtown Unkar city.

– Nothing gained until now, sir. Just delaying an answer for weeks on end." – Fulber said, happy to tell someone one of his problems.

– And did you present the three options I suggested you?" – lawyer Roberto asked.

—Yes. One after the other in the course of time."
—And?"
—Nothing yet.
Roberto combs his hair with one of his hands, saying: "Seems she is not inclined to let you run her business."
—She mistrust me!"—Fulber said.
Roberto stared at him for a moment and said: "She will not let you push her aside."
—Seems like. In any case, I was acting by pure symphaty."—Fulber said. Roberto looks on him and asked: "Well, tell me what have you got from her? a car, a house?"
Fulber looked down the street, saying:
—"Nothing costly. Some shirts, pants, a couple of shoes."
—I see. But she takes you to fancy Restaurants, luxurious places?"—Roberto asked.
—Yes, that is almost everyday."—Fulber said.
—I can tell you your future under her umbrella!"—The lawyer said, handing him a card.
—What?"
—Call me. I cannot waste anymore time here, but call me after 22 hours."

— I will!" Fuller said, pocketing the card in his pocket trouser

When she went out of the Beauty Parlor, she was a blonde with many curles and a wide smile.

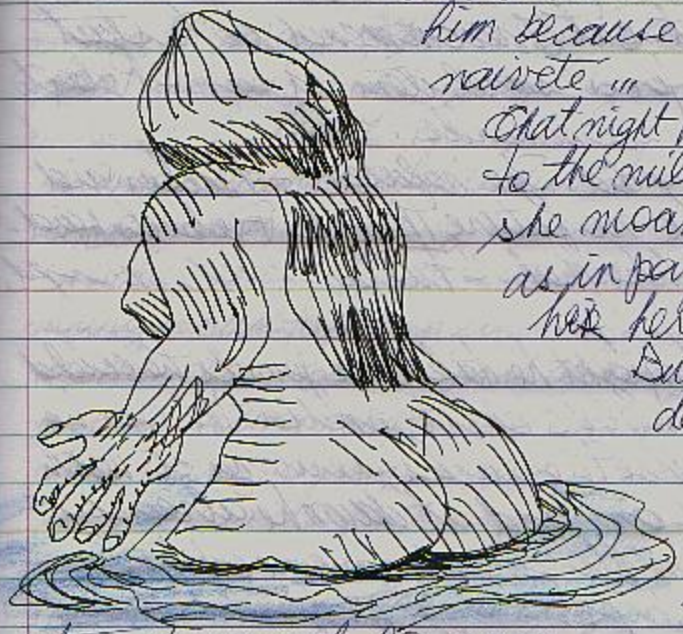

— Shall we go, dear? I'm thirsty!" — And she added an address - his favorite coffee shop Fuller drives towards that place, making inventory: 16 shirts, 4 pants, 3 pair of shoes (one of them so ridiculous he never uses) and some electronic gadgets - nothing costly. Of course, he have more items, but not bought by the millionaire.

When at the coffee shop, he said: "I'm always using your car, darling. I wonder if you could buy me a car... I could pay you later."

She stared at him, and said: "Why? Is it not enough with my car? Or it's bothering you?"

— It's not my own, you see. I want one of my own." — Fuller said. She smiled knowingly and said: "If that is the case, I give you my car! Next thing tomorrow I'll give you the papers at your name."

Fulber was happy: the car was a very costly one, and a thing to show that lawyer... in order not to critiques him because of his naivete."

That night he makes love to the millionaire until she moaned of delight" as in payment for her generosity."

But no; four days later, and Miss Lana Durgal has not made the legal transference to his name.

Fulber calls Roberto at 23 hours, saying:

— Now we can talk"

— Where's she?"

— at her bedroom."

— You not with her? Why?

— We have separate rooms."

— I see. Well, as I see things, she is using you as a toy. Not real love, of course — just a partner to whom she devote some time of her life and then discard."

— Sounds terrific."
— It's terrific if you wanted love and devotion on her part. But I recommend you to start asking her for a small item. A car." Roberto the lawyer recommends.
— I already did. She refuses." Fuller said.
— you have no future there." Roberto said.

Indiro the tourist guide.
Bierana the potion thrower.

11/2018.

T. The hotel have a swimming pool and there he ends up meeting a nice man called Indiro, a guide & tourist.

— Yes, I'm an explorer, but now I'm obliged on to be a simple guide! Up there in the forest there are ruins, and where are old ruins could also be treasures." Indiro said

Fulber pays the fare and went on the tourist bus to lake Axinet, 250 km to the nor-East. In it also travels several young people, and one female approaches him, saying: "Could I seat next to you, Sir?"

— Of course." He said, signalling the seat next to the window.

— Thanks! I'm bored to be molested by men without proper manners!" She said.

— My name is Fulber... and I promess not to open my mouth at all." He said, smiling.

— Oh! I'm Bierana said, and looked out the window.

The drone of the bus engine makes Fulber gets asleep not 30 km from the departure point.

Bierana

Four hours later, Fulber awakes and felt a certain pressure on his legs. He realize Miss Bierana was lying with his head on his legs, so she could sleep better. Looking as much as he could towards the others seats, he saw them asleep - darkness was on the fields and the only light was from the bus.

He caressed that body very gentle, until she become moaning softly. He was aroused and keeps on caressing her, who just didn't awake.

Later he also gets asleep... Minutes later, the bus suffer a terrible blow by the side, and leaves the road at 180 kilometers per hour - by the inertia it went and finally hits a forest, dissappearing from anyone who could be looking on the road... The animal who attacked the bus have been an Allosaurus, at that moment stumbling to the other side of the road; he advances 20 or so meters and lie still... his heavy head cracked with the fiery impact...

In the morning, Tulber regains conscience, remembering a night full of noises and he realize he was under a weight - the light was dimmed by branches and leaves from the surrounding area.

He moves and push until leaving the bus by a broken window - an upper window, that is, because the bus was lying on one of his sides.

He rested half lying on the ground, with a sudden dizziness that seemed capable of to knock him out if keeping moving around, so he waits a couple more hours to stand up and see around properly.

The side towards the sky have a nearly intenture - the front wheel was missing and that side, the door and 2 windows were combed inside; the windowpanes were also missing.

Allosaurus

The hill was steep and he could not see the road. He realize he have no wallet - and his bags were on the side of the bus. He takes them out - with some others - and to recover his wallet he pushed out and with great effort, 6 corpses - 3 males and one female - he recognized Bierana, and tried to know if she was alive or not - her heart was thumping, but her body was flaccid. - He went inside the bus and recovers his wallet - and some other objects pertaining to the passengers.

He takes as many money as he could, from the passenger's pockets or in female purses - all of it he hides on his bags.

He saw an Allosaurus coming, so he takes his bags and walked away - the animal eats a couple of legs, belched and went away.

Seeing that Bierana was still intact, he carried her away from the crashed bus.

A horde of Coelophysis passed near them; one of ~~them~~ the beasts stopped to sniff on him, but Fuller throw him a stone and the Coelophysis went Horrified, Fuller managed to get more into the woods, carrying his valisses (first) and then the young woman, who was still in shock.

The sound of animals were in the air. He climbs a tree and in a branch he leaves his bags, and in another he waits for the rescue- The woman was near, but under bushes - too heavy for him to put on a branch 2.50 meters from the ground.

He was tempted to depart with his bags and climb towards the road, but the Coelophysis were now passing towards the bus, where a carnage was going on."

That night he heard moanings and he realize it was the woman. He descends from where he was perched upon and saw her, in the dimm light, walking unsteadily.

"Hey! Come here!" He said. she grabbed his arm and said: "Where am I? Why it is so dark?"

— We crashed! But we are not safe on the ground! Try to climb a tree!" Fulber said.
— Why? Where's the bus?" She asked, trying to see what she mentioned.
— Gone! Crashed! Climb!" Fulber said, and a growl not 50 meters away helps her to decide. He also helps her up the tree.
When at a branch, he said: "The bus goes out the road! The passengers are all dead!" Fulber said. She looked at the darkness and murmured: "But you and me are alive! Why?"
— The destiny was written before you and me come to this life! Don't search for an answer." Fulber said, giving thanks to the Creator of all.
— I cannot remember." She said.
— What? I told you: we go over the border, stumbled down, all passengers dead except you and me." Fulber said patiently. —

She moves and also goes down, so he approaches and takes her by the waist, saying: "You must recover yourself before trying to return to the road!"

So they stayed up there, embraced and in silence, but on the ground animals were chirping, growling or whistling until dawn. Then, a fog covered every tree in its mist and Fulber slept throughout half that morning; she moves and he awakes.

—The fog is gone" Bierana said.

—good! Now we'll descend, climb the hill and stops any vehicle we could see! In here we cannot live longer."— Fulber replied.

When on the ground she said: "I don't remember a thing about me! Only my name... because you mention it!" Bierana confided to him.—

Fulber stared at her, saying: "You are still in shock! But in time you'll recover your memory."

—and you... What are you to me?"— Bierana asked. Fulber realized he could fullfill one of his wishes very easily, and said:

—Your boyfriend." She opened wide eyes and said: "You and me? Lovers? I don't remember!"

— Don't rush, darling. Let's walk! Help me with a bag." -He said, handling her one of his valises to be carried.

They hurriedly climbs, and a quarter of an hour later they were being carried in a truck by an honest driver.

—And what were you doing in that road?" The driver asked.

—Our car stops and it slips over the border." He said. The driver laughed and said: "So, you are one more who just ignore the hand brakes."

—Well, no big deal! It was and old junk."— Fulber lied - he was not going to declare what really happened there, or he'll be in a lot of debts.

They descend where they start: Vieh City...

Fulber hails a taxi and booked at a nice hotel, where they take a shower to take the filth out of their skins - that stinky hill gives his mark on their hairs, too.

Naked, he try to grasses her, but Bierana refuses, saying: "I think it's not proper."

—But, why, darling? We are lovers!"

—And he embrace her again. She murmured: "I still don't remember things."

specially we being... lovers. Could we wait for... What you are asking for?"

One sight of Bierana naked was too much for Fulber, who caressed her some more, but the woman was adamant: no sex by now! So, he have to wait!

They rest the afternoon in bed, ~~the~~ and he said: "Our clothes are filthy. We must go out and buy new ones."

-But I have no money!- She said with despair.

-Who cares? I have, and I am taking well care of you."

-But! if you remember who I am, why don't let me know where are my fathers... my home? They must be worried because of me!"- She said, sobbing.

-Come on! Don't get sad on me! And I will tell you things: we were voyaging to spend some days at the fields, when the bus goes to the side!"

-But, my parents?

-You have no parents! Or so you said when I asked. You worked dancing at a cabaret... but not in this city. I met you at a food store... but you quit some 3 months ago,

– why do you cry?"
– It's because I don't remember anything! I'm depending on you „ absolutely!" – Bierana explained.
– Don't worry! We are lovers." – He said, kissing her until she stopped crying...
Fulber opens a small shop for to sell bread, biscuits and the like. There Bierana become a Vendor – visiting clients, and with her simpathy and good looking's gains huge contracts – with that money, Fulber recovers machines and become a producer and a seller in Vieh city.
– We are rich!" – Bierana said one night, looking her dinner table with stacks of sepes.
– Are you happy?" – He asked, from the other side of the table.
– Yes! But it hasts recover my full memory." – She said, blinking one eye. Fulber, who have been lying to her from the begening, was very happy with her amnesia and didn't keep with the there.
A week later, she said: "I'm pregnant."
– Congratulations! A son will be a blessing for our nice relationship.

– Do you really think so?
– Yes! I love you dearly.
– Then why don't we marry, Fulber? I want my sons with a true father." Bienaa commented. He embrace her and said. "I'll do whatever you love most! But a piece of paper will not change a thing between us."
– Just the same. Tradition rules society." – Bienaa said, kissing him.
Once married, she was radiant and one day her mind remembers his past. It was when she was cooking bread (helped by 14 other workers). She leaves the working place and seats at his desk on the office. She grabs a pen and writes all down: her true name, the names of her parents, sisters, where they live and her own occupation. athlete! Also, in those memories, Fulber was nowhere – He cheats on me!" She murmured, crying loudly. Some of the workers went to Fulber (who has arriving in a truck after a delivery) and said.
– Boss! Something is happening to your wife.

she is crying at the office!"

Fuller thanks for the news to the worker, and hurriedly walks to the office, and seeing Bierara crying, he said: "What's happening, darling?"

She sobbed and said: "I recover my full memory; and you have been lying to me since I saw you!"

He realize he was in big trouble, and said: "I can explain everything to you, darling!"

– Do you really believe what are you saying? You deprive me of my family!"

– Bierara said, angrily - she was not crying anymore."

– When I save you, darling, all I wished was your happiness! And as I saw you so troubled, I told you what I think best! How could I know about your family if I was a total stranger?" – Fuller said.

– and telling me you were my lover? Oh, how easily I become your mistress!" – She sobbed again.

– I loved you at first sight." – he said, embracing her. She moaned and said: "Now I must approach my parents with a husband —But, do you know where they live?" Fuller asked.

—Yes. In this very city."

—All right. I'll go there and I'll tell them the whole truth!" Fuller said, kissing her. She think it over and said: "For the sake of our child... that is in the way to live in this world, let me tell them a different story".

—What? It's better to tell the truth: you were with amnesia and today you remember it all! Is it like that, or not?" Fuller asked.

—Yes. I recently remember it! Perhaps as I'm pregnant that something stirs in me, making memories comes back to my brain!" Bierna commented, now a bit less worried.

At the next day, both of them went to see her parents — the house was located in a cheap sector of the city, and when ringing the bell, an old lady opens the door and stayed there, transfixed while staring with wide eyes to Bierna, who said: "Hello, mam! I'm back."

After minutes of emotions and some welcomes to Fuller, they enter the house, where

Mr. Cilore, father of Diana

Miss Sinog (mother of Diana) calls her husband by phone, telling what was happening. While the man (Mr. Cilore) was coming, Diana explains her amnesia and what has happened since she dissappear from her parent's life.

The father was a huge kind of man, a worker on a mill. First he was glad at his daughter, but when hearing the whole story, he said.

—I'm believing your explanations, but it's hard to believe. where are the rest of the dead passengers? We have no knowledge of them. The Bliss never find their remnants."

—they were eaten by beasts.— Fulber said.

—Yes. Hard to believe.— Mr. Cilore repeated, and from that instant on, Fulber classifies him as a stubborn kind of man.

Miss Sinog calls by phone the rest of the family, and at dinner time the 2 sisters were spellbound while Diana keeps repeating her version of what happened.

– Fulber was on the bus and saved me from the beasts. She nursed me, take care of me, up to this day." – She said, and Mr. Cilone replied: "But he should be – should have call on the Police and tell everything about the crash, instead of kidnapping you."
– kidnapping ?" – Fulber said, ashamed as it was true.
– Yes ! You saw in her a healthy kind of young female and take advantage of the situation !" – Mr. Cilone said. His wife Miss Sprog said: "You cannot be so harsh on him ! Behave yourself !" – and that she said because her daughter seems to be really attached to Fulber.
Bierana blushed and said: "We are already married and I'm pregnant."
– His behavior has been evil !" – Mr. Cilone said.
After a few more minutes, Bierana departs from her parents house, with Fulber in his Wake.
In the way home in a Taxi cab, she said: "My father is very rude !"

Mariane and Feline soon were working at the Bakery, being the sisters of Bierana, who was now ahead in her pregnancy and not able to work much. Fulber was happy because they were young and very intelligent, able to cope with the intricacies of to buy and sell.

His happiness ends when the Police come to his working place, with an accusation of robbery. He said to the policeman in charge of the case: "But I have never robbed anybody!"

– Here are the accusation. Read it yourself." The policeman said and yes, the accusation was made by Miss Lana Dugel and a long list of jewels were indicated.

– I never take any jewel!" He said, adamantly.

– Well, you must tell that to judge Gregory: be there next Tuesday." The policeman said; to his astonishment, he must present at Guno city or he will be carried there as rebelious one.

– My love, I must attend an important meeting at Go Guno city. It'll be a matter of 2 or 3 days." He said to his wife Bierana. She was mildly surprised, but accepted the fake reasons he gives her...

[At the day of the citation]

At the appointed day, he was ready and with a hired lawyer at his side. The judge said: "Miss Lara Durgal, owner of 35 jewels of high price, accussed you on the charge of robbery. She is saying you take the jewels and disappear, with obvious reasons of to never return. What do you say about that?"

The lawyer said: "My client never takes the aforementioned jewels."

—The accussed must speak on his own behalf."— The Judge said, frowning.

—I never took anything pertaining to Miss Lara I did leave her company after being refused on an object I asks of her.

The judge frowned and said: "And what did you ask Miss Lara, that provoker such a result?"

—A car, your Highness."

—So you leave her when she denied you a car for your own?"

— Yes, Y. H.; also, I asked her to run her bussiness, but in fact, she never accepts it. She wants me as a decoration in his life."— Fulber said, and the Judge coughed and said:

—I never take any jewels. And the only jewel I saw while in her company, was a necklace made of gold: a thing I ignore if it was stolen or not." — Fulber said. The Judge reads the list of missing jewels and said: "The object you talk about its not in this list. I declare you innocent, and any other accusation on you is dismissed from now on, as you live in another city and unable to inflict any damage with the lady in question. You may leave now."

—Thanks you." Fulber said, and departed without eden saw Sara, who Wasn't present and this, because she was represented by his lawyer, an old man in his sixties.

At the street, the lawyer said: "Well, I congratulate you, Sir. My uncle and judge have find you not guilty."

—Oh, yes, I am! And thanks for your kind defense. I see the money I pay you it was a good investment." — Fulber said, and soon he was buying a ticket to fly towards Vich City."

When arriving to Vieh City, he saw a new competitor's in the field of Bakery. This one (it says the advertisements) specializing in fine products - but also producing standard bread.
As usual in these cases, people (customers) went in throngs to buy the novelty products; sells decrease and with his workers, Fulber begin to copy (and modify) the competitor's products.
- Wish we could remount this hard times, darling!" - He said, weeks later - the new products weren't having much acceptation among clients.
- Don't you worry! The tide will reverse and you'll get the ones lost." - Biorana comforted, with that ascertaining some women posses...
But he not regained his first post; the newcomer sets numerous small shops over town and compete with Fulber clients.
- I will sell some other stuff. Perhaps furniture." - He said to Oirana, who combed her hair and said: "You must keep on with your branch of activities: food. Perhaps using the bread as main support."
- And what is the other ingredient?" - He asked, very curious.

-Chocolat. With chocolat in it, making small bars... wrapped in a easy, easy opening bag, you'll have a cheap, easy to eat piece of food everyone will use as other people uses candy."- Bierana said.

Fulber liked the idea and soon he was producing it, amid a big advertisement campaign. The new product was soon popular, and another flavors become prepared, to be sold with other names...

-Back to normal! Thank to your idea."- Fulber said to Bierana, who smiled and said: "We must always trying to improve our products. If we stand still, we'll be running backwards."
